FOUND DEAD IN BRANCH.
MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Feb. 20. George Robert Franks, 71, former superintendent of streets in Milledgeville, was found dead late Tuesday in a branch near the Oconee river. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of death from exposure. Franks was a former carpenter.

Britain To Stick It Out, Beattie Tells Newsmen

Press Institute Hears Foreign Correspondent Discuss War.

By DUDLEY GLASS.
ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 20.—The bright spot of today's session of the Georgia Press Institute was the address before members and university students by Edward Beattie, foreign correspondent of the United Press.

Mr. Beattie was the guest of the Augusta Chronicle and was presented by William S. Morris, publisher.

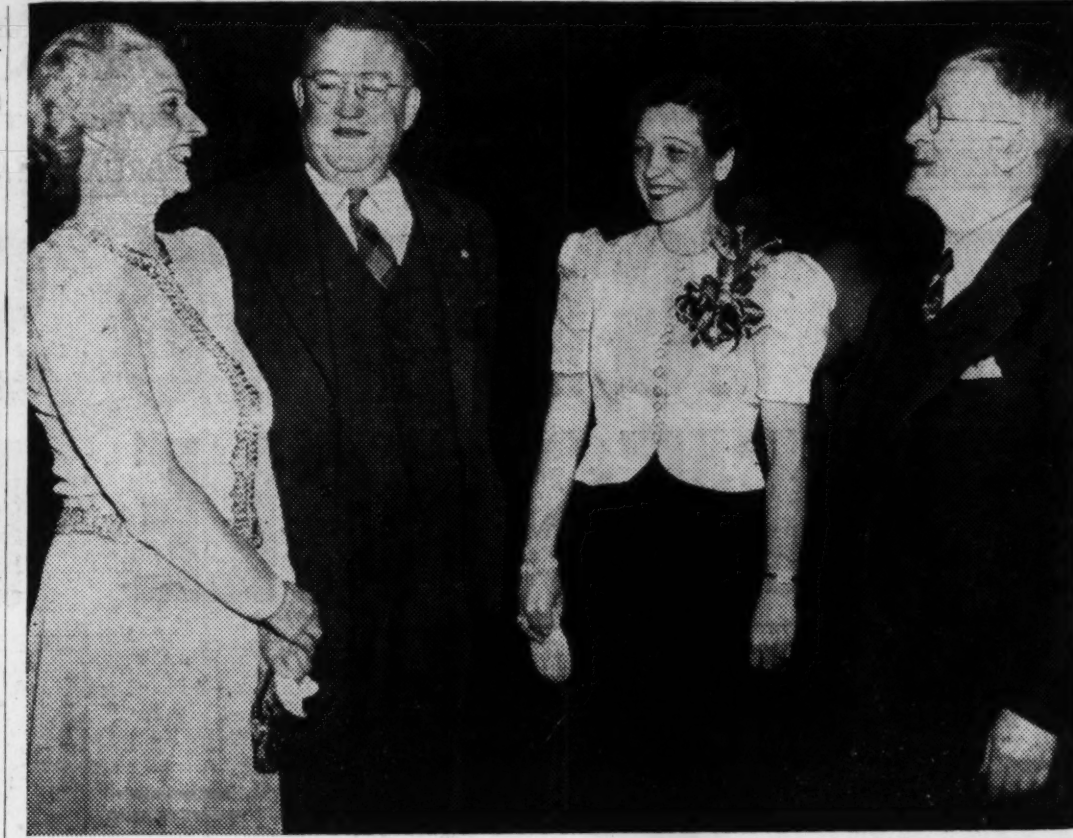

"Imagine fighting a thousand fires a night," said Beattie, discussing informally his memory of London under fire from German planes.

"When incendiary bombs fall people in London don't wait for the firemen to arrive. They pour out of front doors or up from cellars armed with buckets of sand or shovels or anything that's handy and get to work, and out goes the fire, before it gets started."

Mr. Beattie didn't discuss the bigger aspects of the war at length. He did hold firmly to the opinion that Britain will stick it out. He refrained from opinions about what America should do—but one could see he was heartily in favor of all possible aid to England.

He was in London until a few months ago, during the peak of the bombing. He talked about the indomitable spirit of the English people, their sense of humor under the stress of attack.

"The home guard is in many ways the most unusual feature of life in England now," he said. "It dates back to the days of Drake and the fear of the Spanish armada, when the clerks and merchants of London town drilled feverishly to repel the invader—should he ever arrive. Which he didn't.

RENEWING FRIENDSHIPS—Georgia editors and their wives are meeting again this week at the University of Georgia for the Press Institute. In the group here are, left to right, Mrs. Quimby Melton, of Griffin; Editor Melton, Miss Rea McConnell, of Monroe, and Ernest Camp, editor of the Walton Tribune, Monroe.

"England would have fallen if the Spanish of Elizabeth's time had ever been able to establish themselves in force on the islands. If Hitler had been able to do so last summer—and he might have been able had he tried—it would have been the same story."

"England's home guard today is a million and a half strong. It is out of the broomstick stage and has guns and gas masks and steel helmets just like the regular army. A big percentage are veterans of the last World War. Many thousands are armed with American Springfield rifles.

"These men do their normal work all day. At night they take turns patrolling vital roads and bridges. They sleep when they can. It is a real functioning force."

"A modern steel and concrete building stands up beautifully under bombing. A big bomb with a delayed fuse may penetrate a few floors before exploding, but I know of no case where one has gone through to the basement of a properly constructed modern building."

"But what a bomb does to an old-fashioned house is incredible to one who hasn't seen the results. It is as though a giant hand had lifted the house, picked it to pieces and then dropped it from a height of several hundred feet into a weird jigsaw puzzle of splintered masonry and twisted steel."

Today's luncheon was given at the cafeteria of the university with the Columbus Ledger-Enquirer as host. Publisher Maynard L. Ashworth introduced as the speaker Nelson Shipp, editor of those papers.

Mr. Shipp made an impassioned attack on the policy of isolation. He declared the United States had won the last World War, but had "lost the peace."

He reviewed the history of the great wars in behalf of Christianity and freedom, from the days of ancient Rome. He made a plea that America awake to the realization that human liberty and democracy are threatened, and it is time for America to take action.

"If Hitler conquers Britain it will be soon," he said. "If England loses it will mean the surrender of the whole British empire. She cannot hold her possessions. And Germany will have enough ships to cross the Atlantic."

Milton W. Fleetwood, of the Cartersville Tribune-News, led a round-table discussion this morning on how to gain and hold newspaper subscriptions. Boiled down, the editors agreed the prime requisite was to print a good newspaper with plenty of local news. The discussion was confined to the problems of weekly newspapers, as are most of the round-table talks.

Harry Grayson, sports editor of the Newspaper Enterprise Association, talked at one session today—about baseball and football and racing and what makes sports news.

"Double with too many sports writers is they are not enthusiastic," he said. "If he isn't enthusiastic about his job, he can't expect the public to be enthusiastic about his stuff."

Grayson took occasion to renew friendship with Wallace Butts, coach of the University of Georgia football team, whom he praised highly.

Photography Considered.
This afternoon was given over to a round-table discussion of photography for small daily newspapers and weeklies, led by Ray Nixon, of Emory University. It was followed by a discussion of "Character in Journalism," led by James Chapman, of the Lowndes County News, of Valdosta.

Most of the editors attended tonight the university's "Music Appreciation Hour," conducted by Hugh Hodgson, head of the fine arts department.

Tomorrow's feature will be addresses by Richard G. Danner, of the Atlanta office of Federal Bureau of Investigation, and former Governor James M. Cox, publisher of the Atlanta Journal.

Weird Costumes.
Tomorrow night occurs the principal social event of the institute, the "lucky party," at which the host will be Herschel V. Jenkins, publisher of the Savannah Morning News and Evening Press. Editors and their wives are exhibiting, in all secrecy, the weirdest costumes ever assembled under one roof.

The institute closes Saturday with an address by Sirke L. Simpson, of the Washington Bureau of the Associated Press. He will be introduced, as the guest of The Atlanta Constitution, by Major Clark Howell, editor and publisher.

Lemon Juice Recipe Checks Rheumatic Pain Quickly

If you suffer from rheumatic, arthritic or neuritic pain, try this simple, inexpensive home recipe that thousands are using. Get a package of Ru-Ex Compound, a two-week supply, today. Mix it with a quart of water, add the juice of 4 lemons. It's easy. No trouble at all and pleasant. You need only 2 tablespoonfuls two times a day. Often within 48 hours—sometimes overnight—splendid results are obtained. If the pains do not quickly leave and if you do not feel better, return the empty package and Ru-Ex will cost you nothing to try as it is sold by your druggist under an absolute money-back guarantee. Ru-Ex Compound is for sale and recommended by drug stores everywhere.—(Advt.)

Sectionalism Laid to East by Mark Ethridge

Graves called for a "moratorium" of sectional grievances in meeting a national emergency created by the European war and what he termed its threat to American democratic institutions.

Pleading for a "status quo" in national problems, Graves added: "We should forget our internal ills and unite in the face of the threat from that man with the mustache (Adolf Hitler), who threatens all the democratic processes that we hold dear and that we are arguing over here tonight."

Ethridge Opens Program.
Ethridge, former managing editor of the Macon Telegraph, who opened the Town Hall program, declared:

"I am not here to defend the Ku Klux Klan, lynchings, floggings of union organizers, violations of civil rights under any guise, or even manufacturers who magnify the differential between southern and northern living costs—to argue against the wage-hour law."

"I admit that we are highest in homicides, tenancy, illiteracy, soil and even human erosion, and lowest in income, health and education."

"Furthermore, we cannot and will not have full democracy in the south as long as we have these things; as long as farm incomes in some sections run as low as $68 a year for sharecroppers and average $200 a year for 1,500,000 southern families; as long as politicians invoke devices such as poll taxes and white primaries to perpetuate their machines and thereby deprive almost three-fourths of the adult population of any voice in their destiny; as long as our chief export is not cotton, but brains; as long as we imitate Hitler and lynch our fellow citizens or deny them full economic opportunity."

"I have fought all these evils and expect to continue to do so. But as long ago as 1895 Woodrow Wilson said: 'The time has come for the east to learn in her turn to broaden her understanding of political and economic conditions to get the national temperament.'"

"I want to put it stronger than that: It is time for the east, and for all the rest of us, if we are to be a united people, to understand that there is no democracy except on the tongues of Fourth of July orators that is not based on economic justice as well as civil rights."

"I do not believe for a moment that the people of the north as a whole understand what they have been doing to the south."

"Too many of them write the south off as a backward section stewing in its own juice because it is too lazy to get away from a feudal agricultural system. That is a superficial attitude, but no doubt easy on the consciences of people who have had so much to do with shaping our civilization."

Admits Faults.
"The South has faults and prejudices, multitude of them, and some of them represent so much of physical and economic misery that she is sometimes psychopathic in defense of them. But she did not choose the instruments of economic oppression which have been put upon her by her brothers of the North, which can be removed only when the nation realizes the injustice."

"Most important of all is the failure to understand the South as a national problem, the product in large measure of national policy and eastern exploitation."

"It does not have the resources to repair the ravages of that exploitation until the real owners of this section, northern investors in insurance and mortgage companies that own 20 per cent of our land, and stockholders in railroads, public utilities, factories, mills, mines and stores, are ready to plough back some of the capital they have drained off."

"A tax base which rests on exhausted land will never yield enough to educate our children, although we appropriate a greater part of our taxes to education than any other group of states."

"The Civil War served the noble purpose of freeing black slaves, but it enslaved both black and white in the south.

"Why didn't the south get away from cotton? The answer is that it has been trying since the eighties. Its livestock already exceeds its cotton in value. It has diversified to some extent, but the real answer is that through the exercise of political and economic control of this country the industrial east has prevented it."

"Freight rates are the finest example. There is a differential of 39 per cent against the south and 75 per cent against the southwest in class rates, although Commissioner Lea held that the overall cost of hauling freight in the south was less than in the north."

"As long as the southern textile industry was no menace, freight rates were the same, but when northern mills began to move south in the early twenties, to secure national advantages, northern railroads began to clamor for, and got, a 10 per cent penalty against textiles from this section."

"The final count of the indictment of the north is that it has exercised political control over the south. It is no secret to anybody that utilities and railroads, not to mention other great enterprises owned outside of this section, have always taken a lively, and at times, financial interest in the preservation of the feudal political structure of the south. We have had too much government by the intervention of northern overseers and too little government by ourselves down here."

Mayors Urged by LaGuardia To Prepare for Air Attacks

'Little Flower' Says Chances 97 Out of 100 Invasion Won't Be Tried But Warns U. S. Must Be Ready.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, of New York, proposed today, particularly to mayors of east and west coast cities, that they take up the immediate problem of preparing for the possibility of bombing attacks.

Declaring that he was a realist, not an alarmist, the peppery mayor said:

"I will grant that there are 97 per cent probabilities that we may not be attacked, but neither the United States government nor any mayor can take that three per cent chance."

Speaking at a midwest regional meeting of the United States Conference of Mayors, of which he is president, LaGuardia asserted if there is an invasion, the civilian populations will be in the front line trenches, subject first to incendiary bomb attacks.

From a study made of fire-fighting under war conditions, he said, each city must have available about $43,000 of supplementary portable pumping engines and other equipment for each present fire company.

In New York city, that would require an expenditure of about $16,000,000, in Boston $2,000,000, in Baltimore $2,500,000, Pittsburgh $1,500,000, and Philadelphia $3,000,000.

The mayor suggested that the federal government place an immediate order for this equipment.

LaGuardia called on the mayors to develop streamlined and co-ordinated defense organizations in direct contact with military officials "in order to know exactly what they are doing and exactly where the anti-aircraft batteries would be located and exactly how we have to care for the injured and exactly where everyone must be mobilized and cared for."

12-Million Bale Cotton Release Plan Revealed

DANVILLE, Va., Feb. 20.—(AP) Samuel Lampert, New York textile exporter, said today that a "complete plan" for the release of 12,000,000 government-owned bales of cotton would be laid before President Roosevelt within a few days by Representative Hampton P. Fulmer, Democrat, South Carolina.

Lampert said that the plan

State To Bar Profiteering on School Money

Only Sum Actually Paid or Due Teachers To Be Distributed.

State school officials are taking no chances of "counties profiting at the expense of teachers" in the distribution of $3,921,548 Governor Talmadge has promised to pay in overdue school money by March 1.

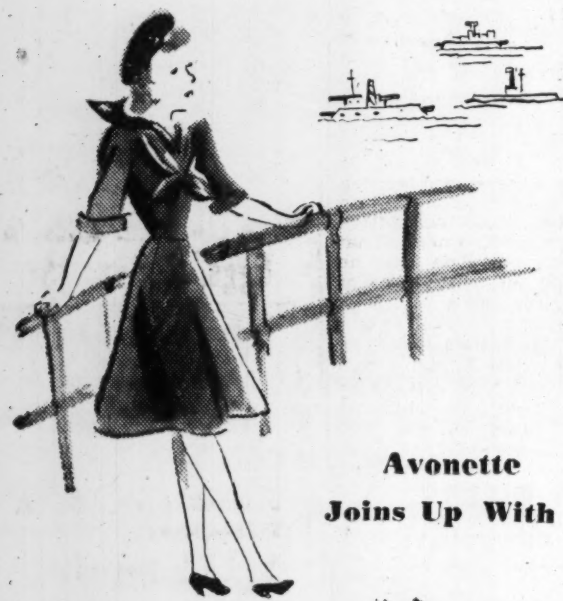

The money will not be used to pay teachers alone, but the intention is to make sure they receive all the 1938-39 salaries owed them. J. I. Allman, supervisor of school administration, pointed out yesterday.

Counties in which teachers were induced to continue their services beneath the established scale or forced to "kick back" salary funds will not be allowed to claim full payment without repaying the amount due, Allman declared.

Of the total funds to be distributed, $278,386 represents a debt for administrative purposes. Many counties managed to continue paying the full salary rate even though state money was not received. Counties that paid in full can use the money as they see fit.

provides for the release of a million bales annually from storage to American textile manufacturers to provide fabrics needed in European countries ravaged by war. The cotton would be released through the Red Cross and the manufacturers would be paid for production in raw cotton, he added.

Aid Bill Flayed By Reynolds in Surprise Move

Marshall Describes Far Eastern Situation as "Serious."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(P)—The lease-lend bill encountered unexpected opposition in the senate today from Senator Reynolds, Democrat, North Carolina, who asserted that it might lead to war and denounced it as a bill "for the preservation of the British people, without any consideration for the preservation of the United States."

A little earlier, the Senate Military Committee, in secret session, heard General George C. Marshall, the Army chief of staff, express his views on the measure. He was reported to have said that it would expedite assistance to Great Britain and increase the capacity of American industry to produce war materials.

Situation "Serious."
In addition, informed sources quoted Marshall as saying that the situation in the Far East was "serious," and that the Pacific fleet would be reinforced immediately with an unspecified number of up-to-date fighting planes. Committee members said he also assured them there was no intention to "strip" America of defense materials through the aid-to-Britain program.

Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, carried on his fight against the lease-lend measure by telling reporters that if it is passed "the President will create incidents which will lead us into war within 30 days after the legislation is signed."

Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, informed Majority Leader Barkley, of Kentucky, that opponents of the British aid bill tentatively had arranged to finish scheduled opposition speeches next Tuesday.

Five To Speak.
Five opponents will be prepared to speak Friday and Saturday, Taft said, and five others will speak Monday and Tuesday.

"Tuesday afternoon," he said, "we ought to be through with all the speeches that are requested." He made this statement when, in midafternoon, it developed that no members on either side of the issue were prepared to speak.

Barkley then agreed with Senator Adams, Democrat, Colorado, to lay aside the British aid measure temporarily and take up a deficiency appropriation bill.

Taft said no opposition speaker had made ready to speak today because all had expected Senator Reynolds to occupy the full afternoon.

The announcement of Reynolds' position came as a surprise because a few days ago he voted to report the bill out of the Foreign Relations Committee. Moreover, his stand was directly contrary to that of his North Carolina colleague, Senator Bailey.

The North Carolinian devoted the early pages of his prepared address to an analysis of events since the World War and then asked that before the senate "decides to give our defense articles, which we so badly need here at home, to Great Britain" it consider the situation here.

Right now, the senator said, the nation is "perilously, dangerously close to war."

'Merry Widow' Well Received By Audience

Frances Campbell Gives Glamorous Performance in Popular Operetta.

By MOZELLE HORTON YOUNG.
"The Merry Widow" received a glamorous representation in the person of Frances Campbell last night when that popular operetta by Franz Lehár was given a brilliant performance by an all-Marietta cast (save the Widow) in the auditorium of the Atlanta Woman's Club. A large audience gave it an enthusiastic reception.

If you want an evening of good entertainment, don't miss tonight's production, which is a repeat performance. And, incidentally, your presence will do good, for the entire proceeds go to the work of the Parish Council of the Cathedral of St. Philip.

Tom Brumby does an excellent job of directing the performance and providing the musical background at the organ. Frances Campbell, who is the only Atlanta member of the cast, is the outstanding singer in the cast, giving a beautiful vocal interpretation of the role, as well as contributing a great deal of personality, pulchritude, poise, and pretty clothes to the character.

Rowan Williams, as Baron Popoff, was a sensation from an acting standpoint, proving himself a natural comedian, and affording most of the laughs of the evening. Stricken with laryngitis, Ruth Ogden, as Natalie, was forced to speak her singing lines, but did so without injury to the general effect. Edmund Hughes made a dashing and "princely" Prince Danilo, and sang with pleasing voice.

The "can-can" dance done by the girls at Maxim's was a "knock-out," and dainty Virginia Tift Brumby as Zozo, with her partner, Bill Tate (who was not so dainty), got quite a hand.

Others contributing to the success of the show were Edmund Downing, Donald Barnes, Ralph Connally, Cyril Best, Selma Downing, Katherine Bertman and the well-trained chorus. Gay and attractive costumes and colorful stage settings were an asset.

Don't be a Blowhard!

Remember that your nose is not made of rubber. If you keep on blowing and blowing, it's bound to become red, sore, and swollen. So stop blowing.

The easy, modern way to clear stopped-up nostrils due to a cold is to use Mentholatum. All you need do is insert this gentle ointment inside your nostrils—spread some outside, too. See how quickly it clears up the stuffiness and relieves irritation—how it checks sniffing and sneezing.

Once you use Mentholatum you'll say it's wonderful. It helps in so many different ways that you should always remember this: For Discomforts of Colds—Mentholatum. Link them together in your mind.

Free Marriage License Urged By Crawford

Would Improve Social Conditions, Solicitor's Aide Declares.

Free marriage licenses were urged yesterday by Leonard Crawford, assistant solicitor of the Fulton criminal courts, as an improvement to social conditions and as a deterrent to crime.

Crawford made the recommendation as the result of conclusions reached after serving as prosecutor in the courts since January, 1929.

Pointing out that all the laws encourage marriage except the one charging a fee for a marriage license, Crawford advocated either making all marriage licenses free or else providing that anyone unable to pay might obtain one without cost.

The fee charged in Georgia, $4 as required by a general law, forces many persons, white and Negroes, to resort to "common law" marriages, the assistant solicitor explained.

Actually, a common law wedding is legal and binding and the bride and groom of such a marriage are legally wed but through ignorance and misunderstanding the children of such unions are often considered illegitimate, he said.

A man who introduces a woman as his wife to witnesses and who poses as being married, actually is married but many persons do not understand it that way.

Crawford pointed to the cases in the criminal courts involving illegitimate children to illustrate the need for free licenses to marry. There were 177 in Fulton county last year—practically all of them involving the children of persons married by common law.

The Georgia law charges $2 for a marriage license application and

$2 for the license itself, $4 in all. This is collected in Fulton county and all others where the ordinary is on salary but in some counties, where the ordinary receives the fee, licenses are given away or a small fee is charged. In the latter instances, the ordinary is simply giving away what the law entitles him to have.

A little Want Ad in The Constitution does many a BIG job.

TWIN PACK 2-IN-1 LOAF
Solved this family's problem

(Reading time: 1 min. 16 sec.)

1. During a recent survey to find out what housewives think about Southern Twin Pack Bread, an interviewer received this interesting information:

2. Interviewer: How do you do, Madam. I'm collecting opinions on Southern Twin Pack Bread. Do you think wrapping half a loaf of white bread and half a loaf of wheat bread in one Southern Twin Pack wrapper is a good idea?

3. Housewife: Marvellous! And that's just why I buy it. You see, the doctor suggested I eat wheat bread and since my husband didn't like it, I always had to buy two loaves—one of each kind, and some of it always got stale. But with Southern Twin Pack 2-in-1 Bread none of it ever does. I only wish someone thought of the idea of selling bread like this long before now.

4. And housewives, there are thousands of other women who have come to agree with her. Why don't you try Southern Twin Pack 2-in-1 Bread today? You'll like the idea of two kinds of bread for the price of one—and you'll also like the money you'll save. Ask your grocer for Southern 2-in-1 Bread by name today!

NOW: 2 Twin Pack Loaves.

1. TWIN PACK WHITE—Two half loaves white bread individually wrapped inside TWIN PACK wrapper.
2. TWIN PACK 2-IN-1—Half loaf white bread, half loaf wheat bread. Both halves individually wrapped and rewrapped in TWIN PACK wrapper.

Check Machine Skips a Payday

Pay day dawned joyously for about 2,500 non-school city employees yesterday, but a temperamental check-writing machine almost spoiled the event.

When operators set the machine dating the checks for February, the mechanism just jumped another month and wrote "March," postdating the checks a month in advance.

Never anticipating that the checks were not written correctly, they were duly signed and many of them were presented to the banks. But the eagle eyes of cashiers quickly noted the March checks. Several hurried telephone calls reached the office of B. Graham West, city comptroller. He found the discrepancy, advised the clearing house banks of the mechanical mistake—and the vouchers were cashed.

Miss Garrett Heads Group To Aid Allies

Headquarters Obtained; Goal of 20,000 Members Is Set.

Constance Garrett was named executive secretary of the Atlanta chapter of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies yesterday.

Miss Garrett, formerly dean and head of a school for girls, was born in Missouri, but has lived in Atlanta for the past 15 years, except for a three-year European residence. New headquarters for the committee have been obtained at 4 Edgewood avenue, N. E. Alterations are being made on the premises, but they will be finished by the first of next week, when a gigantic membership drive will be inaugurated. The drive, which was determined on at an executive board meeting last Monday, will continue two weeks.

The committee has set a goal of 20,000 members, and at present there are about 1,000 enlisted. The assistance of volunteer workers will be required, and persons desirous of aiding this work were urged by Chairman Kilpatrick to contact Miss Garrett at the committee offices, Jackson 2409.

To fill an empty house, rent an empty room, telephone WA. 6585.

HAD WONDERFUL TIME—Says Lieutenant Olympia Kozick, Army nursing corps, to Lieutenant Walter R. DeForrest on arrival in Boston yesterday aboard an Army transport. Reason why, cheerfully admits Miss Kozick, was that she was only girl among 1,300 soldiers during whole month the ship and men were on maneuvers in Caribbean. Men were debarked in Boston for further training in New England camps.

Court Reform Bill Due For Debate Today

Measure Provides Two Affidavits Disqualify Trial Judge.

By LUKE GREENE.

The house of representatives will resume debate this morning on a bill providing for the disqualification of any superior court judge if two persons should make affidavits that he is biased or prejudiced in his views on a case.

Floor Leader J. W. Culp, of Fayette, moved for adjournment yesterday while the house was engaged in a lively discussion on the measure and the motion carried by a vote of 63 to 58.

Opponents of the bill grew eloquent in their charges that it seriously interfered with the sacredness of the courts, although proponents maintained there was nothing dangerous in the measure.

Representative George L. Sabados, of Dougherty, offered an amendment providing that the bill apply to any trial court. Action on the amendment also was postponed until this morning.

The bill, sponsored by Representatives Boone, of Wilkes; Pannell, of Murray; Evans, of McDuffie; Mann, of Whitfield, and Smith, of Hall, specifies that in the event a judge should be disqualified to sit on a case the Governor would designate another jurist.

Harris Opposes.

Representative Roy Harris, of Richmond, declared that if the bill and its amendment passed it would be possible for two Negro washwomen to have a judge disqualified by making affidavits that he was biased.

"We had better go slow," Harris warned. "We are tinkering with a mighty sacred and precious thing."

Speaking for the bill, Representative L. A. Whipple, of Bleckley, pointed out that since judges have to engage in politics they sometimes are forced into "compromising situations" which the bill would remedy.

"We have political judges and we will always have them as long as they must appeal to the individual voter to be elected," Whipple asserted. "This bill, if it is enacted into law, could be held as a sword over their heads—a solemn warning."

Whipple said it was his opinion that the state did not have many disreputable lawyers who would abuse the law by trying to remove a judge for no valid reason.

Seed Regulations.

With only one dissenting vote the house made a move to protect Georgia farmers by adopting a bill setting up strict regulations for the buying and selling of seed.

The bill is designed to remedy Georgia's reputation as a dumping ground for bad seed. It originally called for a $5 license fee for each retail dealer in seed, but this was reduced by amendment to $1 when several legislators pointed out that small country stores already have sufficient taxes to pay. It sets up a fee of $25 for wholesale dealers and seed brokers.

Provisions of the bill make it necessary that containers of seed be properly labeled, giving specific information, so that the farmer will know what he is buying. It also forbids false or misleading advertising. The commissioner of agriculture is authorized to administer the law.

Representative J. E. Brooks, of Mitchell, who led the fight for passage, declared the farmer had a right to know the kind of seed he was buying and planting and that the bill was something Georgia had been needing for a long time.

Hospitalization.

By a vote of 21 to 0, the house adopted a committee substitute bill providing that any person who has a contract for group hospitalization may go to any properly approved hospital in the state.

Representative Culp, who urged its passage, pointed out that the contractor is now limited to hospitals in his county. The bill, sponsored by Representatives Douglas Mankin, of Fulton, exempting operators of fire apparatus for tort liability for personal or property damages in case of accident while proceeding to a fire or returning from one under emergency orders. The vote was 50 for and 98 against.

The house defeated a substitute measure to a bill originally introduced by Representative Helen Douglas Mankin, of Fulton, exempting operators of fire apparatus for tort liability for personal or property damages in case of accident while proceeding to a fire or returning from one under emergency orders. The vote was 50 for and 98 against.

Administration leaders introduced a bill in the house providing for the abolition of the State Department of Entomology and transferring its duties to the office of commissioner of agriculture. It would authorize the appointment of a state entomologist at a salary of $3,600 per year. A similar bill had been introduced in the senate.

Abandonment.

Representatives Candler, Dunaway and Turner, of DeKalb, introduced a bill making abandonment of a child a continuing offense.

Representative T. L. Byrum, of Rabun, introduced a bill calling for an appropriation of $15,000 to the Department of Natural Resources for meeting requirements of the Federal Bureau of Parks in the construction of Black Rock park in Rabun county.

Floor Leader Culp announced most of today's session will be devoted to the passage of local bills.

Carnegie Official, 71, Weds His Assistant, 38

PASADENA, Cal., Feb. 20.—(AP) Dr. John C. Merriam, 71, president emeritus of the Carnegie Institution, and his 38-year-old literary and scientific collaborator, Miss Margaret Webb, were married today. Their honeymoon will include a visit to Lima, Peru, to attend a meeting of the Pan-American Institute of Geography and History, of which Dr. Merriam is president.

AFL Will Seek 100,000 Men In Ford Plant

Details of Big Organizing Drive Kept Secret From Rival CIO.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 20.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor today put its resources behind one of the biggest organizing drives in AFL history—among more than 100,000 workers in the Ford Motor Company—amid predictions that it would provide a showdown with the rival CIO.

William Green, president of the Federation, carefully withheld the number of organizers on the job and the number of members already signed in Ford plants. He said only that a "great many" had joined.

"We don't want to give information to the enemy—the CIO," he said.

The Federation's plan to step directly into the Ford organizing job—apart from the AFL's United Automobile Workers' campaigns in other plants—was discussed at the final midwinter sessions of the executive council.

Dairy Convention Studies Defense

The national defense program in its relation to the dairy industry was the theme as the annual convention of the Georgia Dairy Association began here yesterday at the Ansley hotel.

The program included an address of welcome by Mayor LeCraw, and speeches by Hugh H. Hill, of Macon, association president; B. F. Castle, of Washington, D. C., president of the Dairy Industry Foundation; Philip Weltner, of Atlanta, and Lewis F. Gordon, of the Citizens & Southern National Bank.

President Hill presided. E. C. Bull, of Savannah, vice president of the organization, responded to the mayor's welcome. The Rev. H. E. McBrayer pronounced the invocation.

A board of directors' meeting in the morning, and an entertainment program last night were features of the session. Officers will be elected this morning.

CITY AIDES NAMED.

CORDELE, Ga., Feb. 20.—The city commission this week re-elected C. L. Harris as city attorney; O. E. Scott, city recorder, and J. W. Mann, meat and milk inspector. Dr. P. L. Williams was elected city physician to succeed Dr. A. J. Whelchel. Mrs. J. M. Dittie, Mrs. W. F. Fleming and R. E. Harris were elected members of the library board for 1941.

'Hellzapoppin'

Olsen and Johnson's sensational revue, "Hellzapoppin," which is in its third year at the New York Winter Garden, will come to the Erlanger theater for three days, beginning Thursday night, featuring Billy House and Eddie Garr. A matinee is scheduled Saturday, March 1.

It is a difficult show to describe, but one critic said it is the merriest bedlam in the theater. There is literally dancing in the aisles and figuratively rolling in them, there is a continual maniacal parade through them.

"Hellzapoppin" has become a national institution of fun, and the company and production coming to the Erlanger theater is equal in every respect, cast and production, to the original in New York city, it is claimed.

"Plead Helpless"

"Be Helpless"

HOW TO INSPIRE A BASHFUL MAN—Hedy Lamarr has a little trouble with Jimmy Stewart. A refugee, she must get married to remain in this country. She meets a bashful author, Stewart, in the park, and invites him to visit the preacher with her. Jimmy is interested only in a secretary. Hedy takes the job. Then lures Jimmy over to help her operate that infernal typewriter. A few scenes later, glamorous Hedy has Jimmy reeling. She's "helpless" in his arms. This time, Jimmy accepts the invitation, "Come Live With Me," which is the title of the film opening today at Loew's Grand.

Senate Votes To Alter Auto License Laws

Bill Would Require Purchase Prior to January 1.

A bill clamping down on loose distribution of automobile tags and requiring Georgia motorists to buy their licenses before January 1 was passed without a negative vote in the senate yesterday.

The measure, sent immediately to the house, limits the sale of new license tags to the period between November 1 and December 31 of each year. Motorists who appear on the highways after January 1 with the previous year's tags on their cars will be subject to fines.

Two Months' Grace.
Under the present arrangement, the general assembly usually extends the deadline to March 1, with the result that many Georgia cars are operated for two months with old licenses on them.

Another bill by Senator Fortson, empowering local housing authorities to seek federal aid in building dwellings for workers on national defense projects was passed, 37-0. Fortson said that laborers were handicapped by having to travel many miles to and from work, and needed convenient housing for efficient work.

state at large, to reapportion the state's 52 senatorial districts according to the 1940 census.

Veto Overridden.
The members are Senators Guyton, Drake, Dixon, Smith, Dobbs, Couch, Daughtry, Hamilton, Edwards, Coker, Lanier and Steed. Dobbs, who is author of the revision bill, is chairman.

The upper chamber joined the house of representatives in overriding Governor Talmadge's first veto, handed down on two local bills affecting the city of Macon. The vote to override the veto was 42-1 on both bills, with Senator Edwards dissenting.

One bill permits the city of Macon to exempt from local taxation any new building or equipment brought into the community for the next five years. The other permits the city to levy graduated taxes on property annexed into the community.

A local bill by Senator Pat Campbell, of Covington, which limits the annual income of the DeKalb county tax commissioner to $5,000, was passed without any negative vote. Homer H. Howard is the DeKalb official affected by the measure.

An administration measure enabling the Highway Department to issue noninterest-bearing certificates to pay off its indebtedness was passed, 32-2. Claims against the department must be approved first by the Highway Board, the state auditor and the Governor before any certificates can be issued to liquidate the claim.

A resolution cutting the home-stead exemption from $2,000 to $1,250 was introduced by Senator John Houston, of Lawrenceville.

So Ends Our Night Moves to Rhodes

"So Ends Our Night," co-starring Fredric March, Margaret Sullivan and Frances Dee, opens a hold-over engagement at the Rhodes theater today.

Briefly, the action of "So Ends Our Night" is concerned with the moving and poignant love story between Ruth Holland, portrayed by Margaret Sullivan, and Ludwig Kern, played by Glenn Ford. The story is unfolded in several European capitals and told through the eyes of political refugees who shuttle across the continent in order to triumph over oppression.

Whether you have a few suitcases or many items of furniture to be moved you can find somebody for the job by turning to Classification 84—"Moving and Storage."

Tech Professor

Is Dead at 55

Funeral Will Be Held at Spring Hill This Afternoon.

Professor Thomas Witt Fitzgerald, head of the electrical engineering department at Georgia Tech, died yesterday at Piedmont hospital after an illness of more than a month. He was 55 years old.

A native of Wolf Creek, W. Va., he had been a member of the Tech faculty since 1920. He received the B.S. degree and a special degree in electrical engineering from the University of West Virginia and later was awarded a master's degree at Emory University.

Funeral services will be held at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill with Dr. Ryland Knight officiating. Senior electrical engineering students will serve as pallbearers and an honorary escort will include Dean W. M. Patton, Dean D. P. Savant, Dean W. G. Perry, Professor H. B. Duling, Professor T. G. Seidell and Professor A. D. Stalnaker. The body will be taken to West Virginia for burial.

A fellow of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Professor Fitzgerald was also a member of Tau Beta Phi, Kappa Eta Kappa, and Phi Kappa Phi, honorary scholastic societies. He resided at 3330 West Peach Ferry road.

Surviving are his wife, and a son, Thomas W. Fitzgerald Jr., and a daughter, Mrs. Helen Bell.

Eden Arrives

In Egypt To Spur Offensive

taken under the civilian mobilization law and was effective in all towns throughout Bulgaria, applying both to men and women workers.

Thus the arrival in the Near East of Eden and General Dill seemed to emphasize that Britain and France are engaged in a race for the Balkans.

Why, in view of the known fact that Britain has only meager forces in Greece at present, doesn't Hitler strike down against Greece without delay to beat the British there?

The explanation is that Hitler's entire Balkan policy is based on intimidation and accomplishment of his ends without spreading the war to a new front. If there is to be war in the Balkans—not only involving Greece but Rumania, Bulgaria and perhaps Turkey as well—he wants the British to take the initiative.

War Is Hinted.

In Istanbul a Turkish foreign office source intimated last night that Turkey's new nonaggression accord with Bulgaria will be repudiated if German armed forces are permitted to use Bulgarian territory as a base for attacking Greece.

If Adolf Hitler attempts to strike across Bulgaria against Greece, it was suggested in British quarters, Turkey may declare war under her alliances with Britain and Greece.

In such an event, it was said, the Turks probably would confine themselves to defensive warfare, for which their army is best adapted, but would permit British warships to pass through the Dardanelles.

British warships moving through the Dardanelles would be able to bombard heavily Germany's supply lines and the Black Sea ports and naval bases of Rumania and Bulgaria.

According to the suggestion of British quarters in Istanbul, British troops would establish bases in Turkey.

Smashing Drives.

Meanwhile, smashing drives carried British forces across the Juba river toward the Italian Somali capital of Mogadiscio and captured the town of Mega in southern Ethiopia.

Ethiopian warriors of the Gofjiam plateau, aided by Royal Air Force planes, meanwhile were reported from Khartoum to have inflicted heavy losses on a force of 2,000 Italian troops in an ambush about 180 miles northwest of Addis Ababa in the Choke mountains.

Throughout East Africa British bombing and machinegunning planes intensified their assaults from the Eritrean capital of Asmara 1,300 miles southward to the equator on the Somali front, official communiques revealed.

British and German planes fought an air battle over the North African desert where German Heinkel bombers staged two attacks on Bengasi, an RAF communique said.

British Hurricane fighters aiding the British land push toward Tripoli battled a formation of Nazi Messerschmitt 110s, with the loss of two British planes.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Riverdale Baptist church, with the Rev. Z. E. Barron and the Rev. J. T. Widner officiating. Burial will be in the churchyard, with A. C. Hemperley & Son in charge.

Coca-Cola Gets

Defense Plant

The War Department official said, in reply:

"We have gone into all that. Several companies have asked for this contract. We are requesting the Coca-Cola Company take it because we want a job of production, and our investigation has shown that no company in the country has a better record of production than the Coca-Cola Company. It is production we want and your management can supply it."

Subsidiary Formed.

The Coca-Cola Company officials then agreed to the request by the defense commission and the War Department and accepted the job. The subsidiary company was formed.

Executives of the Coca-Cola Company will be lent the new defense company. Any difference in salaries allowed by the defense contracts will be assumed by the Coca-Cola Company.

Anglo-Irish Rift

Mediation Is Seen

LONDON, Friday, Feb. 21.—(UP)—Political quarters reported last night that some important United States or Canadian figure may be asked to seek a mediated settlement of the Anglo-Irish dispute, particularly in regard to Britain's desire for Irish naval and air bases.

The possibility of such a mediation attempt was foreseen after a memorandum stressing the "urgent need" of an immediate accord was submitted to Prime Minister Eamon de Valera, of Eire, and Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Britain.

The memorandum, represented as reflecting the feelings of Irishmen throughout the world, was submitted by a group headed by General Sir Hubert Gough, veteran British military leader who now is leader of local defense volunteers for the London zone.

YOUNGEST AIR TRAVELER—Fifteen-month-old Charles Moffett Mohan, a grandson of the late Admiral William A. Moffett, is believed to be the youngest passenger ever to travel by air unescorted. He flew 700 miles from Knoxville to visit his grandmother in Washington. Some of the trip was spent in the arms of the hostess.

Stewart Knew Of Rackets in Labor, He Says

Kendrick promptly declared that he would be glad to join in any prosecution of labor racketeers.

Expounding his views on the labor situation, Stewart said: "The government should not discriminate or permit discrimination against a citizen because he is a member of a labor union. I was not called upon to pay $50 for the privilege, nor was I asked to produce a union card. Defense is the same whether one is erecting a building or whether one is being blown to bits on a battlefield."

Stewart pointed out that the State Unemployment Service registered union as well as nonunion men and that no charge was made for such registration.

Charges Racket.

He charged that a racket was being perpetrated at Port Oglethorpe where workers were required to pay down a $10 fee but later said this condition involved a Tennessee union.

In the event Georgia's Unemployment Service should become exhausted because of the great demand for labor, Stewart said the state could call on other bureaus throughout the country. He said there were 32 employment offices in Georgia.

Stewart said he hated to disagree with some of his friends over the labor question.

George Googe, southern labor representative, declared that "a contractor has the right to hire union or nonunion labor and that a union has the right to accept initiation fees from men who want to join the union."

Dewey Johnson, president of the Georgia Federation of Labor, testified there had been considerable misunderstanding concerning labor initiation fees and that in Georgia, is scheduled to come up in the senate this morning, but the measure's sponsor, H. B. Edwards, indicated yesterday that he would ask that debate be postponed until Tuesday, when all senators could be present.

The bill was reported favorably Wednesday afternoon by the state of the republic committee after a public hearing.

LABOR RESOLUTION INTRODUCED IN HOUSE

Representative W. R. Moore, of Tallahassee, introduced a resolution condemning the practice of coercing or forcing persons to pay exorbitant tribute to certain organizations, societies or unions.

The resolution asked that such practice be made a misdemeanor and that grand juries and other enforcement officers be authorized to enforce it. The resolution was referred to the committee on the state of the republic.

TAXI BILL FAVORABLY REPORTED IN HOUSE

A bill requiring taxicab drivers to take their patrons to designated destinations was reported out favorably yesterday by the special judiciary committee of the house of representatives.

Representative Roscoe Pickett Jr., of Pickens, pointed out that under the bill taxi drivers could not refuse to carry a passenger to a hotel or other place where a strike might be in progress without liability.

The committee on public highways No. 1 deferred action on a bill which would authorize counties to obtain rights of way for roads and the state to pay half of the cost. Several members of the committee pointed out that under the present system the counties get their rights of way at virtually no cost.

Oberdorfer Offered Grady Board Place

Eugene Oberdorfer, administrator of the estate of the late Albert Steiner, yesterday was offered a place as one of the members of the Grady hospital board of trustees after Joseph Hirsch, another one of the Steiner estate administrators, had declined it for business reasons.

Munition Barges Sunk By Storm at Gibraltar

MADRID, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Two large barges loaded with munitions and several smaller boats were sunk at Gibraltar in the hurricane that swept the Spanish peninsula Saturday, dispatches from Algeciras reported today.

Some damage to warships at the British fortress also was reported.

Accord Barring Laval Rejected By Nazi Envoy

Return With 'Full Powers' Termed Necessary Preliminary.

VICHY, France, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Friends of former Vice Premier Pierre Laval said today a proposal for reaching a French-German understanding without restoring Laval to power in the Vichy government had been rejected by Otto Abetz, Adolf Hitler's ambassador in Paris.

These sources asserted the suggestion was laid before Abetz in Paris by the present vice premier, Admiral Jean Darlan. Abetz, they added, replied that Laval's return with "full powers" in the French government was a necessary preliminary to any agreement between the two nations.

Darlan returned to Vichy from Paris today and went immediately to the official residence of Chief of State Philippe Petain for a two-hour conference.

H. Carl Wolf To Be Honored At Dinner Here

Community Fund Drive Director To Be the Honor Guest.

H. Carl Wolf, Atlanta utility executive, is to be honored at a testimonial dinner Monday night in recognition of his leadership in directing the citizens volunteers in last fall's Community Fund appeal. It will be held at 7 o'clock at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Nine predecessors of Mr. Wolf as campaign chairman make up the committee in charge. They are Preston S. Arkwright, Julian V. Boehm, Alvin Cates, W. C. Harris, Henry Heinz, R. T. (Bobby) Jones, Mayor Roy LeCraw, Harry Sommers and Dr. H. L. Turner. Following Community Fund custom, every guest pays for his own dinner.

Nearly 50,000 Atlanta people chipped in close to $500,000 to Mr. Wolf's 1940 appeal—the biggest amount realized by any campaign since the central fund idea was adopted 18 years ago. The total fell below the requisite minimum enabling fund agencies to meet pressing needs which are their responsibility in the whole human welfare setup, yet it represented steady progress through the past five years in mobilizing city-wide understanding and generosity.

While felicitating Mr. Wolf on his conspicuous contribution to the wellbeing of the community, sponsors of Monday night's testimonial plan to capitalize the opportunity for rallying support to Richard H. Rich Jr., who has already actively undertaken the task of organizing next fall's 1941 appeal.

Greeks Mop Up Nests of Italians

ATHENS, Feb. 20.—(P)—Little activity was reported today from the Greek-Italian warfront in Albania except for artillery dueling and consolidation of minor Greek gains in central sectors.

The Greeks organized new advance positions there, it was said, and mopped up nests of Italian resistance which remained after last week's offensive. (Despite this thrust, the Albanian front has not changed materially for weeks.) Greek artillerymen were credited in one front report with capturing boats in which Italian units were retiring across an unidentified river. Scores dumped from boats by the shellfire were said to have been drowned.

after a cold then what

DOCTORS stress remaining in bed until the body temperature is normal. Sound advice.

You know how weak you feel after a cold. Colds play havoc in weakening the body. The story is well told in the blood picture. It is important to build back body strength right away to carry the load of work, worries, and loss of sleep. A weakened body may be more susceptible to relapse or long drawn out recovery.

So reason sensibly and take the choice of millions by immediately starting on a course of S.S. Tonic—taken three times a day immediately before meals. In the absence of a focal infection or organic disease, you should note improvement in the way you feel and look within the first 10 days. The confidence of millions over many years is the best testimonial of this product.

An experience with S.S. Tonic will cause you to say to your friends, S.S. made me "feel and look like myself again."

Plan Devised For Extending Scout Program

A plan to expand the Boy Scout movement to every rural section in Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina and Florida was devised yesterday by George Lanier, of West Point, head of the extension program finance committee, who met with Atlantans serving as an advisory board to the committee.

Termed as the most stabilizing influence for young American boys and an advantage previously withheld from rural boys especially in South Carolina and Georgia for lack of organization, the scouting movement in the rural section of region six, composed of the four states, has been actively extended since 1937.

Declaring that the boys in towns of less than 2,500 persons comprise more than 70 per cent of the approximately half million boys in the region between the ages of 12 and 16, W. A. Dobson, regional executive of the Boy Scouts, said that the group activity was sorely needed in the country areas.

The plan to organize 257 districts of the four states into self-sustaining scouting councils will be completed if the 23 remaining districts are formed into active scouting councils this year, and the skeleton organizations of other districts expanded.

To further the work, W. E. Mitchell, Robert Strickland, Mel R. Wilkerson, F. D. Wood and Lee Ashcraft, all of Atlanta, and members of the advisory board, discussed the expansion program with Lanier. Cherry Emerson, regional chairman of the Boy Scouts, also attended the meeting and described the gains made with the Scout movement in the past three years.

Scouting membership in the region has increased from 135,251 to 247,254 since 1937 and 649 additional troops have been formed.

We put our stores where LANE Stores are Needed!

Strange As It Seems...

Making a lot of money is Not Our First Consideration

When we plan the location of a new store, we don't approach the problem as most people might guess. We don't locate stores simply because we like a certain town or community. Not one of our stores is opened out of vanity—none simply because we like to have a lot of stores. Neither are Lane stores opened primarily for the purpose of making money... and, as much as we would like to be able to do so, our stores are not operated simply to give employment to a large number of people.

On the contrary Lane Stores are opened first and foremost to serve the communities of which they are a part... to the complete satisfaction of their patrons.

Our entire plan of research is centered on finding where Lane Drug Stores are needed—because, we are well aware that when the public is well served—employees will have permanent positions, at satisfactory compensation—and the stores will prosper in proportion to the services which they render.

THE WAR

... and your Prescriptions

War in Europe and the blockades it has brought have upset some of the most important drug markets of the world. To name a few... belladonna formerly came chiefly from Bulgaria; digitalis from England; rhubarb from China and Tibet; orrisroot from Italy; ichthyol from Germany... all of these and many others have mounted rapidly in price.

At Lane you will not be as quickly affected by these changed conditions as you might be elsewhere. In the first place, our reserve stocks are kept large. And even with prices higher, volume-buying gives us a saving which we pass along to you.

ATLANTA, GA., FEBRUARY 21, 1941.

Probably True

Although admittedly lacking any official confirmation, the report emanating from Mexico City of a great Nazi "Fifth Column" conspiracy covering both North and South America is probably basically true. For it is utterly logical, to be expected and in line with Nazi activities on both continents which every informed person has known of, in a general way, for months.

The Mexico City report stated that plans of the Nazi conspiracy include the sabotaging of United States defense preparations, blocking of United States aid to Britain and the antagonizing of Latin-American republics against this country by fomenting rebellions, riots and strikes.

It is self-evident that such activities are just what the Nazis would like to get under way. They are obvious moves in the general Nazi campaign for subjugation of the world, as well as in the more immediate waging of the present war against Britain.

It is likewise known there are numerous Nazi agents already at work in the Americas. It was stated as long ago as last summer that there were, then, 75,000 Nazi Germans in Mexico, trained in warfare and with hidden arms, ready to form the nucleus of a Nazi army, whenever sufficient disruption has been caused on this side of the Atlantic to invite such a step.

Undoubtedly there is a "Fifth Column" at work in America today. Some of its members are direct agents of the Nazi government. Some are irresponsible dupes and some are Americans who would hotly resent any charge against their patriotism, yet are playing "Hitler's game by encouraging national disunity for political or selfish purposes.

There may be no official confirmation of the Mexico City report, but who can doubt that there isn't a Nazi agent or sympathizer in the world who would not like to help in bringing about the three objectives mentioned as goals of the alleged conspiracy?

It is in Minnesota that an insomniac reports swallowing a button by mistake for a sleeping tablet and passing a restless night.

Will It Grow Here?

If, as reported, an English doctor in Venezuela has discovered a type of grass which drives away mosquitoes, ticks and snakes, the discovery is one of the most important contributions to the betterment of human life in decades.

It is stated that no mosquitoes can be found over fields where this grass grows, although elsewhere in the same localities the malaria-carrying insects are so thick it is almost necessary to breathe through gas masks.

Cattle pastured on this grass—which is described as excellent food for the beasts—are free from ticks and dreaded snakes of poisonous varieties will not come within smelling distance of the grass.

It is believed that use of this grass will open vast areas of Venezuelan land for cultivation which, because of the prevalence of the malaria-carrying mosquitoes, has been unfit for human penetration in the past. A present population of 4,000,000, for the entire country, might well grow to ten times that size if the malaria scourge is removed and the unused land devoted to the raising of foodstuffs.

It is to be hoped the mystery grass may be transplanted, successfully, to other climes. While Floridians, for instance, will undoubtedly resent publication of the fact, it is nevertheless true that, at certain seasons of the year, the mosquito is the one factor that changes Florida sunshine from an adjunct of paradise to a replica of hades. And there are mosquitoes in plague-like quantities, in some areas of Georgia, Carolina and other states. Not to mention mosquitoily notorious Jersey.

"The best things in life are free," cried the popular songwriter, for at that time no one was pricing neutrality.

Washington says income tax returns this year will be gone over with a fine-tooth comb. A dime here and a dollar there and the dandruff counts up.

It Isn't Logical

Herbert Hoover seems to possess an odd genius for getting himself into illogical positions. From the days when he insisted prosperity was "just around the corner," while, at the same time, he sent soldiers to chase American citizens along Pennsylvania avenue, he has so frequently contradicted himself that one more spell of tanglefoot would be nothing to worry about if it did not affect the most important problem in the world today, that of the defeat of Hitler.

Mr. Hoover has again revamped his plans for feeding the populations of occupied countries in Europe. The strange paradox of his new position is that the plan calls for no action of the United States government, requires no use of American ships and asks no contributions from the American public—yet he is broadcasting radio speeches about it to the people of this country. Why?

If, as he declares, the scheme is now so safeguarded that Germany will derive no advantage from it, if it will in no way "prejudice the defense of Britain," and if it will help to keep alive the spirit of resistance of Hitlerism in the enslaved states, surely Mr. Hoover has the standing to convince the British government on these points, without the aid of nation-wide hook-ups over here. Winston Churchill is far from dumb, and the objectives listed are exactly what he desires.

But if Mr. Hoover exaggerates the efficacy of his safeguards, if he is mistaken in thinking the scheme would work no harm to the British cause, how could American public opinion be involved? It would be unthinkable to seek to arouse public opinion in this country to use as a cudgel to compel the British to accept a scheme which would be dangerous to them, at the very time when the United States is preparing, for its own safety, to strain every resource and every nerve in Britain's aid.

The truth is, if the plan is really sound and will work, as its authors say it will, there is no need for popular agitation here; if it won't work, then the American public is being urged, in effect, to force the British into doing something that would be totally contrary to the vital interests and declared policy of the United States.

Mr. Hoover's forensics just don't make sense.

More Democratic Justice

The proposal to permit instalment payment of fines imposed in recorder's courts has much to recommend it.

Chief point in its favor, from any viewpoint, is that it more nearly equalizes justice between the man who has money and the man who has none. In the past the man with money, or able to procure it, paid his fine and went on his way. Whereas the man without money, and unable to raise the amount of his fine, went to the city prison there to expiate his offense by confinement and toil.

Under the instalment plan the impoverished violator of the city ordinances is given opportunity to earn the needed money as a free man and pay his fine, in future instalments, out of his earnings.

Of course, this does not quite achieve the ends of utterly impartial justice, but it is a step in the right direction. Utterly impartial justice would vary the fines imposed according to ability to pay. Thus the man fined $10, to whom $10 represents all the money he has, would see his wealthier fellow sinner fined $10,000, all the money he had. Which would make the punishment equal. Remember the widow? Whose gift of a mite was adjudged so great because it was all that she had?

Well, then, shouldn't justice measure the severity of fine, as punishment, in proportion to the possessions of the one fined?

But such a procedure calls for Utopian society and a judge with supernatural ability to measure human offenses and human ability to pay.

In the meantime, the instalment plan for fines is to be commended and welcomed as a step toward making justice more equal and making the prison gates more truly democratic.

Georgia Editors Say:

CAPITOL MYSTERY

(From The Daily Tifton Gazette.)

The newspaper reporters in Atlanta are having a field day with the state capital mystery. First, a large picture of Governor Rivers disappeared from a capitol corridor. Now a plaque commemorating the deeds of the Lakeland paving prodigy has gone. The picture was a large one, and the plaque was of metal, four feet wide and five feet long. So no mere souvenir hunter stuck the missing articles under his coat and walked out of the building. But Talmadge employees in the capitol are not co-operating with the newsmen and photographers, and are frank to admit they are afraid to do so because they might lose their jobs. No one seems to know anything about the missing picture and plaque. Workers will not even pose for photographers at the spots from which the missing decorations were removed. Evidently, the Sage of Sugar Creek is ruling the state's governmental center with an iron hand. And Georgia is getting some advertising in other states that it does not want. It will require more than the proposed $50,000-a-year advertising fund to block out the adverse publicity this state has received because of the goings-on in Atlanta.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER

MEANING OF A PACT WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Although at odds on many other topics, the best authorities here agree on the meaning of the current Balkan crisis. Since Turkey signed the nonaggression pact with Bulgaria, and thus symbolically consented to German occupation of her neighbor, it has been generally expected that the entire Balkan peninsula, including Greece, would soon come under German domination.

German domination of the Balkans, whether direct or through Hitler's subordinate, Mussolini, signifies three things. First, Hitler will have achieved his ambition of a Deutsche Europa, a German Europe, in which he can fortify himself if his onslaught against the British Isles proves unsuccessful. Second, Hitler will have prevented the formation of a Saloniki front by forestalling Sir Archibald Wavell's plan to send a large part of his force to Greece after chasing the Italians out of Africa. And, third, Hitler will be able to organize the Balkans for his own purposes, both as an important producing area for the German war economy, and as a base for air attacks on the British stronghold in Crete and on the British Mediterranean fleet.

The same able American observer who recently reported Winston Churchill's views on German grand strategy found the British war leader exceedingly gloomy about the whole Mediterranean situation. Churchill's gloom is not surprising in view of the above, and since there are also indications that the Spanish government is allowing German "technicians" and "tourists" to prepare fortifications and bases near Algeiras and Ceuta, on either side of the Straits of Gibraltar. Churchill, though glowingly optimistic on all other points, admitted that the next round of the war might end with all the Mediterranean lost to Britain, except the area of Africa now controlled by Wavell's armies.

Nevertheless, the prospect of German domination of the Balkans is at least not so alarming now as when the Germans first tried for it last fall. Then the Italian fleet was still undamaged, and an Italian army threatened Egypt from Sidi Barrani. The plan was to use the Italian fleet and the Luftwaffe to cover the transport of a large German force from the Italian base, along the coast of Turkey, to French Syria, and then to strike east to Mosul or south to Suez while the Italians pushed into Egypt. Now the Italian army is routed and the fleet crippled. To threaten any vital British positions except by air, the Germans must cross the Dardanelles and drive through 750 to 1,000 miles of trackless Anatolian mountain range, fighting the Turks all the way. Later, perhaps, the Germans may soften the Turks into granting them transit through their territory, but for the present the limits of the Balkans seem likely to remain the limits of German land power in the Near East.

RUSSIA AS PROCURER A sharp change in Turkish policy from bold belligerence to the passive acquiescence is what made German domination of the Balkans seemingly inevitable. The rewards were not great enough to tempt the Germans into risking a general war in the Balkans. Had Turkey made a deal with Japan, freeing the Japanese for an attack on Singapore, or the Dutch Indies, to win the support of Turkey, forcing Turkish submission to Germany's Balkan plans. For the time being, Molotov put him off, or seemed to. Now, however, about a quarter of the original Russian army of 400,000 has been withdrawn from the Manchurian frontier. A Russo-Japanese trade pact is in prospect. And the Japanese are on the move in Malaya. Simultaneously, Turkey has been neutralized, with several indications of Russian pressure. In short, the Russians have ended by doing exactly what Hitler asked, and are expected to be given the Rumanian province of Moldavia and the Rumanian Black sea ports as a reward.

As to why Russia ended by playing procurer for Germany there are two schools of thought, summed up in the persons of former Ambassador to France William C. Bullitt and Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles. The Bullitt school holds that with 70 German divisions on the Polish frontier, Russia is Germany's prisoner, and cannot be bargained with by this country and Britain. The Welles school has argued that a bargain with Russia was possible, and the recent suspension of the American moral embargo against the Soviets, though a mere gesture, was an expression of the Wellesian theory. Bullitt's notions prevail in Britain. However, since Britain had to make the real concessions to Russia, in such matters as recognition of Russia's conquest of the Baltic states and spheres of influence in Asia, the opposing theories were not fully tested.

MODERN PLAY The argument between the Welles and Bullitt schools will no doubt continue. Although the Turks specifically stated in their treaty with Britain that they could not oppose Russia, there will be much discussion of the rights and wrongs of Turkey's action. There will also be much discussion of the precise degree of Germany's Balkan power. But for those who are watching the war from this side of the Atlantic, the events in the Balkans are chiefly important as an obvious prelude of the main struggle now just ahead. The curtain is rising. The play may turn out to be one of those modern dramas in which the audience becomes inextricably entangled in the action.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

I Never Saw the Lady.

It has never been my privilege to see Sally Rand, either attired in the customary costume for females, or unattired in her professional appearances. Was invited to meet her at a cocktail party a few weeks ago, but other engagements prevented.

Have read, however, where she visited, briefly, the Georgia legislature and addressed a few words to that body that could not have taken more than two or three minutes to deliver.

Have also read, since, the fulminations of several people who seem to think that a heinous crime was committed when Miss Rand visited our esteemed body of lawmakers and the said lawmakers listened politely to her greeting. Have been informed, also, that one of our most saintly salvagers of souls devoted a Sunday morning homily to a quite unprovoked attack on the lady's reputation.

For the life of me I can't see any reasons either for criticism of the legislative body or of the lady herself.

Undoubtedly the visit to the legislature was arranged by an astute press agent. It has all the earmarks of the publicity man's fine Italian hand. I think it was quite a smart stunt and should be commended by all who recognize ability when they see it. That sort of thing is what press agents draw salaries for.

As for Nudity—As for the reported condemnation of the young lady on the grounds that she makes her living by displaying extensive areas of her unadorned cuticle in night clubs, theaters and similar places of amusement and instruction, that, too, seems to me to be utterly unbecoming.

The notion that the human body is something disgraceful, always to be kept carefully hidden from public view—except, of course, at swimming pools or on the beach—is one of those evil things inherited from the darker ages of mankind. Most of the evil in the world springs from unnatural repressions and the habit of hiding the body beneath layers of artificial covering, known as clothes, has been the basic cause of more nastiness in human life than any other one factor.

If we were franker about our physical selves and less self-conscious about the physiques that are, after all, the gift of the good God, we wouldn't be creating so many so-called "sins" to keep hidden so carefully as we hide our torsos.

I know nothing of the private life of Miss Rand, and, really, care less. But if her only sin is the display of what is reported to be quite a beautiful body, I think she hasn't sinned at all. In fact, if that is all she has done, she has contributed her portion of beauty to a world that needs all the loveliness it can find. The display of her own body is far less reprehensible than the public interpretation of that display by self-righteous critics. For, they, by their words, create the evil that wasn't there until their own imaginations brought it into existence.

No Advocate

Of General Nudism.

Of course, I'd be the last to advocate a general condition of nudism for all of the citizens of this country. The anatomical horrors that would then be stalking around our public places would far offset the comparatively few specimens who could rightfully be called beautiful. If all were approximately as lovely as Sally Rand is reputed to be, well and good. But I'm afraid too many would more closely approximate the bodily attainments of her critics. Which would be awful.

And, too, discontinuance of clothing would put so many people out of work. Think of the dress manufacturers, the tailors and all the folks who make a living out of creating or seeing the innumerable articles of human covering and adornment.

And think of the doctors and nurses and hospitals who'd be out. For, after a generation or two of nudity, we'd all undoubtedly be healthier.

But I do want this thing of seeing evil in nudity, per se, to pass away from the human mind, along with the other horrible things of a prudish era that is, fortunately, rapidly dying.

I'm glad we don't insist, for instance, on all men wearing a wig. History tells that most of those artificial head coverings were

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Should Have Seen 1900 NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Those members of American youth who may be inclined to find fault with the state of the nation and to blame the present senior class for neglect and sloth I should like to address a message—unolicited, to be sure, but prepaid. It goes this way:

If you think things are bad now you should have seen the mess which we inherited around 1900. Hardly anyone had electric lights then, even in the cities, and gaslight was still a luxury, and, of course, there were no automobiles to speak of, nor any paved roads, and the plumbing was about what you would find in a modernized French or English mansion at this time—which is to say very primitive. Wages were low, but you could get a sou' wester for a nickel and liver was free for the cat, but fresh vegetables vanished from the people's diet for a Christmas delicacy.

Rats Big Enough To Ride

Up to some time around 1915 the river front in Chicago was a revolting mess of garbage, literally, and old buildings infested by rats big enough to saddle and ride, and in most of the transportation consisted of street cars only, which in winter were heated by coal stoves. In New York, up to then, the subway came up the East Side to Forty-second street, then forked off to Broadway and uptown, by comparison with a present system so intricate that even some of the policemen don't know their way around.

Only a dozen years ago a drive from New York to Philadelphia was an expedition, and it took at least two and a half hours to get past Newark. Our generation built those vehicular tunnels and the George Washington bridge, the Pulaski skyway and the concrete through-route which avoids the hard going in the congested districts. Our generation just obliterated South Water street, Chicago, shoved back the lake and made those boulevards of the whip which you swiftly and smoothly to areas which were country then.

Those Who

Deserve Credit

Of course, I personally, made no contribution to these improvements, but if you are going to blame my generation, generally, for neglect and failure in certain matters, you have to count us all in on the credits. Those who deserve the greatest credit as individuals or groups were the dirty capitalists who created the motor industry and other productive lines for sordid gain.

In the matter of public improvements, credit belongs to the politicians—many of them grafters. I grant you, who were constantly trying to put the public in debt to them for material improvements to which they could point with pride in campaign time. They furnished the drive.

You should have seen St. Louis about 1900. You should have seen Detroit.

So we have neglected you, have we? Well, in 1900 there were only 114,000 students taking regular college courses, fewer than one-tenth of the enrollment in 1938, and while it is true that the population also grew, that increase was only about 60 per cent. Work that out on your polished intellect and see how many more of you are going to college in proportion to the population than went to college then.

Why, in those days Miami was a little isolated trading post and the soil which is now showing up green vegetables and even strawberries in winter and all that citrus was showing up only weeds, vine, pine and palmettoes. If you think the Indians or nature made that change you are crazy. That was all done by this generation, which also produced the airplane, the telephone system, the radio and discoveries in healing that now cure people who similarly ailing then just had to die.

And all this time my generation somehow contrived to preserve the American liberties under the constitution which you will not appreciate until and unless they are taken away. And if anyone tries to tell about the marvelous advance in Russia, ask him how many ordinary Russians own automobiles and what happens to a Russian who says a word against Joe Stalin. Ask how things are in Germany and Italy and make your comparisons.

If your generation does half as well as mine you will have run a very good score, and I hope you do.

nothing but habitations for small insects that not only bite but also carry disease germs.

And I'm glad that orthodox Christians no longer consider it sinful to bathe. They did so regard the act of washing oneself, in the early days, you know. It must have been hard to be a Christian in ancient Rome, when they gathered in overcrowded, unventilated catacombs.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Monday, February 21, 1916:

"Washington, February 20.—Tension is increasing in the situation between the United States and the central powers as a response is awaited from Berlin to the latest request of the American government for definite assurances regarding the conduct of submarine warfare."

And Fifty

Years Ago.

From the news columns of Saturday, February 21, 1891:

"Dynamite blasting still continues in Athens, to the great danger of life and property, but the work must go on."

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

ST. LOUIS AGAIN With smoke no longer a problem, the city of St. Louis is turning to other problems which long have baffled the best minds, so to speak.

St. Louis had surveys and surveys to find out what caused smoke. They knew all along, but always there were those who said they must have a survey.

One day they found that, by eliminating the fuel which produced excessive smoke, they could eliminate smoke. Now, this was known to one and all through all the long years of debate. One day they decided to eliminate smoke. And did it.

Having done that the citizens are encouraged enough to discuss the blighted sections of their city. They all agree, without dissent, that the decline in older sections must be arrested, to prevent physical, physical and esthetic losses of serious proportions.

They are going to do something about it, being pleased as children with a new toy on having discovered that if they will quit trying to survey what they can see and act on what common sense dictates, they can solve their obvious problems.

Atlanta has its blighted areas. Nothing is being done about them. Many of our areas could be restored with improved traffic conditions and the cutting of some new streets and the widening of others. All cities have these problems.

St. Louis now believes that if owners of property in blighted areas would join together, tear down whole blocks of old houses approaching the slum class and then rebuild cottages with lawns and playgrounds through co-operation with government agencies, they would have property which would be profitable over a long period of years.

Living in a city is attractive if there is no smoke and if there is grass and playing space for children. The government housing projects, with long waiting lists, have demonstrated this.

There is no mystery about getting rid of smoke. It requires no campaign by newspapers or citizens' committees. It requires action. The rebuilding of a city through improved traffic conditions and the remodeling of blighted areas can be done if there are enough men with courage and vision and common sense.

St. Louis, having found what determined action can do, is going ahead to eliminate another phase of municipal decay.

NEGRO HOUSING

There is another municipal problem which too many are fearful about discussing and simply. That is Negro housing.

Atlanta already has one problem where the encroachment of Negro property owners and renters in a section for generations occupied only by white persons, is of a serious and inflammatory nature. There are other where the problem is growing more acute. It is a problem not at all confined to the south.

It is a problem which can be solved. Negroes do not move into white sections because they wish to live next to white persons. They move, as their economic condition permits, to streets which are paved and to houses with modern conveniences and roofs which do not leak. Just so long as pavements and decent housing are not provided in sections where they live, they will go seeking them.

Richmond, Va., discovered this years ago and, after a realistic session of council, finally quit talking and surveying and worrying and got to work. Negro housing and the encroachment of Negroes in white sections no longer is the problem it was. The poor Negro, as well as the poor white man, long has been exploited in so far as housing is concerned. That is why government housing was, and is necessary. And that is why government housing projects will continue. The success of government, low-rent housing projects shames our record of the past.

It seems to require years and years of talk and surveying and disappointment before finally a municipality will admit the facts before its very eyes and unite on the only possible action.

St. Louis now has found that its blighted residential sections within its city limits are sections of bad housing where only those who can afford nothing better or who can find nothing better, live in discontent and discomfort. Their rents often are as high as those in government housing projects but no places there are available.

OUR OWN PROBLEMS

St. Louis, amazed at its success with smoke, is going to do something about this.

The same things are true in Atlanta and other cities. There is no use kidding ourselves.

People find it difficult to get into and out of Atlanta. Atlanta knows its traffic conditions are bad. Atlanta has been talking about it for years.

Yet only this week has the municipality got up its courage to go so far as to eliminate angle parking even on its narrow and busiest streets.

No one knows how long it will be before bottlenecks, underpasses, new streets and widened streets will make it possible for Atlanta to retain its municipal values. No one knows how long it will be before Atlanta and the government will insist on a solution of housing problems for its citizens of low income levels, white and colored.

Maybe St. Louis will supply an impetus to all municipalities. We could use one.

Words Are Useless Unless They Mean the Same Thing to Speaker and Listener

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

The new rainy-day or party game, called Rembrandt and various other names, could well be used by school teachers as a test of their own ability to put across ideas and information.

If you are a witness in a murder trial, you are not given drawing paper and crayons with which to picture the thing you saw. Your only tools are words, and with these you must enable the jurors to visualize the scene that is retained in your own memory.

It sounds easy, but it isn't. The minds of the jurors aren't like yours. Words mean one thing to you and something slightly different to each of them. (One juror, having helped to perpetrate a notorious injustice a few years ago, confessed that he didn't know the meanings of the words "plaintiff" and "defendant" and had no idea which was which.)

The object of the game is to reproduce a scene with no guidance except words. You distribute pencils and paper. Then you take any simple picture which the other haven't seen—a landscape or farm scene is best—and describe it as best you can, without gestures. And you answer all questions as accurately as you can.

Comparison of the finished pictures, which aren't supposed to be well drawn, should reveal how well or how little your friends commonly understand what you say to them. Unless you are a wizard with words, there will be surprises—and heated argument.

When pupils seem dull, the explanation in many instances is the inability of teachers to express an idea in terms that are understandable.

It is difficult to get an accurate answer to any simple question. The one you question may know the answer, and believe he is making it crystal clear, yet his words convey little or nothing to your understanding.

If you doubt it, borrow a question from a recent radio program and ask your family to define a snore, a sneeze and a belch.

The sad truth is that our highly educated generation, schooled in isms and dogmas, hasn't yet learned to speak its native language.

Permits Pet Poet To Poke Fun at Fancy Foodstuffs

Behold the many mysteries revealed in modern recipes! I never dreamed the day would come when grapefruit would be toasted. And often I am moved to tears when on my dinner plate appears a carrot carved in divers shapes and smothered, broiled or roasted.

I find horse chestnuts in the sauce; the salad's made of grass and moss, the juice of limes and turnip tops are blended in the gravy, the ham is cooked in ginger ale, the cabbage, broccoli and kale are topped with creamy stuff that's thick enough to float the navy.

Desserts are made of shivering goo that's undecided what to do; it slips and slides around the bowl with every slightest movement and if it fell upon the floor a half a dozen times or more it wouldn't hurt the stuff a bit . . . it might effect improvement.

Grandfather lived to ninety-three and never saw a calory. He ate his beans and cabbage boiled and fried his ham or mutton. He ate a dish of simple slaw or took his sweet potatoes raw and relished well the side of pig nor scorned the lowly butter.

But we must have our foods refined, each vegetable must be shined, the dishes must be "glorified" . . . but here's the burning question . . . Will eating decorative stuff make us grow sturdy, strong and tough or will it fatten those who make the pills for indigestion?

—OLLIE REEVES.

Alarming Ad

In last week's Quiltman Free Press I ran across an ad which, I think, should have been refused admittance to the mails—because it is subversive (whatever that is) of public policy, revolutionary and likely to destroy the hallowed institution known as the American home.

A new restaurant had opened—and had served 250 "special dinners" on the initial day. So far, so good.

But the proprietor went too far. Far too far. In closing his appreciation of public patronage he said:

"Men, don't make your wife get up in the cold to prepare your breakfast. Come by and eat with us. Special breakfast with hot cakes, sausage, ham or bacon, and coffee for only 25 cents."

You can see what that might lead to—if you don't mind our ending a sentence with a preposition. Think of the husbands who soon will be buying breakfast at the Bijou or the Athenia cafe for 25 cents. Or maybe 15 cents.

I can visualize far-reaching consequences if this type of advertising is permitted to go on. The toiling husband starts in by making his own coffee. The wife comes downstairs in time to imbibe a cup and fry an egg. Pretty soon she opens a can and serves a ready-made fried egg.

Not long afterward she hands the can to her husband and tells him to open it. Inevitably the time will come when she will tell him to heat it up for himself.

Worse and Worse

The morning sun rises—day after day. Sooner or later it dawns upon the man of the household that he might as well not bother to awaken his dear one. She needs her rest, darling. And making coffee and opening a can begin to pall. So he climbs into his clothes and goes down town to feast with Athos Papadopoulos at the Owl Lunch Parlor, Western Meats Served, We Never Sleep.

After that it is merely a matter of weeks. She telephones him not to come home to lunch because she won't be at home. He eats at the Owl.

Time (if the phrase is not copyrighted) marches on. Pretty soon he wends his weary way homeward, filled with the memories of hamburgers, eggs straight up and hot dogs all the way—and wishing he'd taken another shot of that soda-bicarb—to be greeted at the door of his bungalow. His wife has her hat and coat on.

"Don't take your coat off, dear," she suggests. "Just go down and put some coal in the furnace and hurry back. I thought it would be nice to go out to dinner somewhere. I do get so tired of this eternal burning myself up over a hot stove."

Tornado Anniversary.

A year ago, on February 10, the beautiful town of Albany, Ga., was devastated by a tornado. The Albany Herald printed many pictures of the wrecked buildings.

Last Sunday the Herald issued a tabloid supplement of 32 pages revealing what enterprise and courage can do.

Many of the old pictures are republished. But beside or beneath them are photographs showing the same area as it looks today.

The debris is all gone. No battered walls are there, no shattered buildings. New, bigger and better was the slogan of the builders.

I passed through Albany only a week or two after the tornado and even then the rebuilding was well under way.

It would be hard to look upon a tornado as a blessing—but parts of Albany certainly look much better now than they did before the big storm.

Cood Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON

Tomorrow is the 20th anniversary of the birth of George Washington. He was born February 22, 1732, at Bridges Creek, Westmoreland county, Virginia. He died December 14, 1799, at Mount Vernon. He was a farmer—born on the farm and died on the farm. He was six feet and two inches in height, with brown hair, blue eyes, large head and hands, and strong arms. He was not a scholar. Such education as he received was completed by the time he was 16 years of age. At the age of 13 he wrote out for his own use 110 maxims of civility and good behavior. He was athletic, a good rider, and was chiefly fond of fox hunting. He spent many a night in camp in the woods. He was a member of the Episcopal church, faithful throughout his life in attendance and in support of the church.

He received his commission as a public surveyor in 1748. He surveyed much of the territory in the Virginia Alleghenies, for which service he received good pay. He saved his money and invested it in land. In 1751 he entered upon his first military duty, receiving an appointment with rank of major. But it was not to trace the fascinating details of the life of this great man that I started out on this column. I was thinking about this troubled world, and remembered that tomorrow is the birthday of George Washington, and before I realized it, I was setting down facts, learned long ago in my boyhood, about a man whose greatness increases with the passing of time.

I find myself wishing that George Washington were alive today. I do. Indeed, I often find myself wishing that every truly great person were alive today. That, you may say, is mere wishful thinking, and will do no good. Maybe so, but that's the way I feel about it. I often wish that we had Moses back here on the earth. Maybe he could lead us out of this wilderness.

And when my mind goes back to these great men, I seem to hear them saying, "We are here. Stand up and face the facts. Don't be afraid. God is alive. We know him to be alive. . . ."

Teddy Roosevelt did. I do. They were all great men, and they accomplished what they did accomplish because they stood up in the face of facts, trusting in God. They did not give way to fear. They were not swept into panic.

Very well. I think I will go home and walk down into the patch and look at the sunset, and listen to the birds at twilight, and ask God to help me face life like a man. Selah.

In 1935, Representative Ralph Lewis, of Waynesboro, Burke county, came to the house of representatives for his first term. He was "drafted" by friends, he says, and received no opposition. He's a lawyer who looks on an attendance in the law-making body as something of a first-rate contact organization as well as an information source. He likes to meet the persons who are associated with him here. He believes in hard, efficient government and is the co-author of a bill to amend the constitution in order to regulate the Governor's pardoning power. His hobby is golf.

A second-termer in the house of representatives, T. Guy Connell is a general law practitioner in the firm of Wilcox, Connell and Wilcox, of Valdosta. He received his LL.B. degree from Mercer University in 1918 and served in the United States Navy during the World War. His major interest in taking part in the law-making of Georgia is to serve his county best, to concentrate on the judicial branch of the government and to better educational systems of the state. He thinks that laws should be regulated, brought up to date, and into such a state that the courts can command and receive the respect due them.

Born in Thomas county in 1866, W. A. Walker Sr., the gentleman from Grady, attended the country schools "such as they were" at that time. He was graduated in medicine from the Louisville (Ky.) School of Medicine in 1889 and practiced medicine and surgery in Grady county and southwest Georgia until 1934, when his physical condition demanded that he retire. Now he's in the house of representatives, a member of the older group of solons, but an ardent worker and enthusiast for a knowledge of the wheels behind the law-making of the state.

Teddy Roosevelt did. I do. They were all great men, and they accomplished what they did accomplish because they stood up in the face of facts, trusting in God. They did not give way to fear. They were not swept into panic.

Tech Rallies in Second Half To Defeat Georgia, 52 to 44

Jackets' Win Is First Over Lampe Team

Crosby and Blackwell Pace Scoring Spree in Last 5 Minutes.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.
Little Davey Crosby, heretofore just one of many sophomore substitutes, started his first varsity game last night and led an inspired Georgia Tech team to its first victory in three years over the University of Georgia, 52-44, before a howling crowd at the Jacket gym.

Crosby, one of the four Tech men to play the entire game, shot 17 points from all angles to lead a last-half assault on the Bulldogs, who held a two-point advantage at half-time, 20-18. It was a fast and thrilling battle. All told the Jackets changed hands 13 times during the battle.

Missing His Chance? A most reliable baseball man, who'd rather his name was not used in the connection, believes Alf Anderson is making a serious mistake in not signing with the Pittsburgh Pirates at the terms they are offering.

"The Pirates, unless I miss my guess, aren't fooling about not sending the boy any more contracts. Naturally, they have a lot of money tied up in Anderson, but they might decide to sell him to a Double A club at a loss.

"I hate to see a young prospect who seems to have a brilliant future get off on the wrong foot or make a mistake that might hurt that future.

"Here's the idea: Most young stars go to the big show and have a terrific fight on their hands breaking into the lineup. Anderson doesn't face anything like that. Frankie Frisch was going to put Anderson in there at short and tell him it was his red wagon. Not many rookies get that chance their first year up.

"Then, too, the boy seems determined to miss a fine trip to California; and on top of that he needs the experience of spring training with the Bucs.

"If the boy would only listen to baseball men, he would be convinced the Pirates will do right by him if he makes the grade. Listen, they left that Pop Young sitting on the bench at a salary of $9,000. And look how they took care of Paul Waner, among others."

There is a lot to what the baseball man says. Alf may be listening to the wrong advice and missing one of the big chances of his life.

He's Slipping Bobby McDermott, who'll appear with the Atlanta Police five Sunday afternoon at Warren Sports Arena, must be slipping.

A couple of years ago a local five was amazed to see McDermott stand in the center of the court and shoot 11 straight baskets. He missed on his 12th try, proving he was human.

What I'm getting at is that McDermott, playing against Tennessee Teachers the other evening, shot ONLY nine out of 11 attempts from center. And his average of long shots made this year now has dwindled to a mere 53 per cent.

McDermott freely is called the greatest player of the present; Nat Holman the greatest player of the past. Is there any comparison to be made between them?

Well, Davy Banks says: "McDermott is a good deal faster than Nat, but Nat had a feint which was just as good as speed. He would fake in one direction and cut in another so fast that the man guarding him would be running 10 feet away when Nat busted for the basket."

Banks refused to pick between them. He would put them both on his all-time Celtic team. This team would include Joe Beckman and Bob McDermott, forwards; Joe Lapchick, center; Dutch Dehnert and Nat Holman, guards. Nat Hickey and Pat Herlihy would be the reserves.

Banks, 21 years a Celtic, only plays part time himself these days. But when he swings into action the famed razzle-dazzle goes at its best.

For the first time in Atlanta, the Celtics will show their plays Sunday afternoon. The Houdinis of the hardwood will stage a between-halves exhibition in slow motion. That will be something to see, along with McDermott.

Wants Fight Sam of Auburn Avenue (J. P. Reynolds) elucidates on the prevailing situation in the heavyweight ranks in an issue of the Daily World which has been forwarded to this desk.

Under the heading "I Am Challenging Joe Louis for a Big Fight," Sam says:

"I might as well get some of that easy money, so I hereby appoint 'Ric' Roberts my publicity man, Lucius Jones my trainer, 'Cliff' Mackay my manager. That part of my program finished, I issue Joe Louis a challenge and I'll get in the ring and take a good beating in the first round to the tune of about six or seven thousand dollars. "I don't think Joe is giving his people who need money a chance. I need money worse than some of those hamlet fighters he is now lining up to fight—and the beautiful part of it is I would at least WILDLIFE FEDERATION DIRECTORS—Directors of the Georgia Wildlife Federation organized at an all-day session yesterday in the assembly room of the Atlanta Fly and Bait Casting Club at the Kimball House. Representing outstanding conservation leaders from various sections of the state, the board of directors launched a long-term campaign to place control of the Division of Wildlife in the hands of a non-paid, non-political commission. The directors, left to right, front: Sidney C. Jones, Waynesboro, who was named chairman; M. E. Harkins, president of the casting club; Dr. Harry Teasley, Hartwell; Lee Evans, Canton; Phil Stone, Dalton; back row: Sam Monroe, Waycross; Buck Jaudon, Elberton; E. M. (Old Salt) Lipscomb, Savannah; Jack Tway, Atlanta; Major Trammell Scott, Atlanta; W. P. Carrington, Atlanta; Hugh Allen, West Point, and Dr. Clabus Lloyd, Gainesville.

State Organization Opens Campaign, Emphasizing Place of Farmer in Game, Fish Development.

By JOHN MARTIN.

When dyed-in-the-wool outdoorsmen—hunters, fishermen and dog men—stay indoors for 6½ hours at a single siesta it is news. When they unanimously agree that it's time to come out of the woods with a plan that should make the woods worth going back into, their plan necessarily must be of interest to some half million Georgians who pursue hunting and fishing as a major pastime.

Thirteen directors of the Georgia Wildlife Federation yesterday went into a huddle here and came out with a working set-up designed to enlist the hunters, fishermen and farmers of the state in a movement that would improve hunting and fishing conditions and subsequently prove of benefit to everybody directly concerned and even to the state as a whole.

This is an 89-cent way of saying that the directors organized, elected a chairman, and attended to various other preliminary duties preparatory to opening a statewide campaign to ultimately establish a commission-director administration for the division of wildlife, with the hunter, fisherman and farmer having the controlling voice.

This plan, which is in effect in states making the greatest progress in game and fish conservation and production, including Wisconsin, Missouri, Indiana, Ohio and over 25 others, has been simmering for several years. But not until the directors of the federation rolled up their sleeves had progress toward its introduction to these parts been convincing.

One of the keynotes of the program will be the emphasis on the importance of the farmer and landowner. The federation will seek to cement an understandable feeling between the farmer and the sportsman, for without this the directors believe that any far-sighted program would be worthless. The farmer and his rights have been neglected too long, it was agreed at the meeting. The directors made it clear that membership to the federation was open to interested conservationists from the first hour of yesterday's session. Likewise, they issued a standing invitation for cash contributions from "sportsmen, farmers, and all persons or agencies interested in the betterment of wildlife in Georgia."

Several voluntary contributions were announced at the long session. It was pointed out that both the bird hunter and the fox hunter would be given equal consideration in the movement. Members of the board endorsed bills being proposed in the general assembly calling for laws in line with the general conservation movement, including size and creel limits, protection of the alligator, shorter quail season, and others. Sidney C. Jones, prominent dog man and field trial leader from Waynesboro, home of the Georgia Trials, was named chairman of the directors. His election was hailed as a ten-strike and places a leading conservationist and prominent man in civic life in a key position. Fred Brewer Jr., of Douglas, was named executive secretary and field representative. Dick Sannett, of Jackson, also was named a field representative, and Mrs. R. B. Wallace, of Atlanta, secretary of the board and the federation.

Paper Claims Delay Sought By Greenberg

DETROIT, Feb. 20.—(P)—Ben O. Shepherd, chairman of local draft board No. 23, said tonight in commenting on a Detroit Free Press story that Hank Greenberg was asking "occupational deferment" from the draft:

"That part of it is not true unless he (Greenberg) has done so in the last couple of days."

The Free Press said that Greenberg, who was expected to be drafted by June 1, returned his questionnaire to the board February 14.

"On it, it was understood," the newspaper said, "was his claim for deferment as a 'necessary man.'"

When last commenting publicly on his possible draft, however, Greenberg said he was willing to enter the Army whenever he was called. His local order number is 621, and draft officials here have said that he probably will come up for induction by June 1.

Dorazio Answers Senator's Charges

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Feb. 20.—(P)—Gus Dorazio—who should know—says "I didn't quit or take a dive" in his fight with Joe Louis. Furthermore, the Philadelphia heavyweight believes there are "apparently some punch drunk senators as well as punch drunk fighters."

Gus, who was knocked out by the Brown Bomber in the second round of their heavyweight title bout last Monday night at Philadelphia, unlimbered his vocabulary last night and answered Pennsylvania State Senator John J. Haluska's charge that he "took a dive."

Boys' High Ends Big 7 Year Against Smithies at Grady Tonight

Sharp SHOOTIN'

by AL SHARP

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Feb. 20.—Ben Hogan is a little guy with a pleasant smile which he doesn't use much on the golf course. He has big hands in proportion to his 138-pound build. And he doesn't know the answer to why he can't putt some days and, on others, everything drops.

He has missed winning money in only two tournaments in 65. In his last 39 tourneys, he has dragged down a hunk of cash. Last time he was out of the money was in 1939 at the National Open.

That record not only makes him the banker of the touring golf brigade but it makes him a marked man at every meet.

Horton Smith introduced us in the lockerroom at Glen Arven this morn'g, questions were bulging.

"It's a funny thing," Ben said, talking about that 62 he got in a recent winter circuit competition, "but that day I played one of the worst rounds I have had all year."

PUTTING WELL.—"In other words, from tee to green, I was not close to being good. But every time I used a putter the ball found the cup. Oh, I was hitting the greens all right, but the ball was far away from the cup. Once I missed a green and chipped.

"Why, if I had been putting as well as that on a day when I was really hitting the ball, there's no telling what I would have had."

Among the pros Hogan is known for his inability to drop 10-footers. Not that a 10-foot putt is supposed to be dropped every time. It isn't. But most pros get their share. Hogan doesn't.

And everyone is waiting for him to start dropping them. When he does, it will be something. Last year, remember, he ran into a streak of putting to be 34 under par in three North Carolina tourneys for victories.

This year he hasn't found the touch for any length of time. He hasn't won a tournament, although he has come close. Some one always seems to get hotter.

Hogan gears himself for a certain score in each tournament. He thinks that formula helps. Of course, he doesn't always stick to it, but if he decides a 287 will win, Hogan tries for that. So far, he has had excellent results.

He is philosophical about that. "If you shoot what you aim at, and it isn't good enough—well, I guess you just have to make the goal a little lower." And does he know when he's going to blow hot with that putter? No.

"Right now, I can't visualize a putt going in from 10 feet. I can see them breaking off just as they get to the cup, but not going in.

"When they do start dropping, I just can't imagine missing. But I can't explain it. Those things come in streaks. The rest is a mystery.

"Oh, yes, there's one thing about putting. Although I don't sink many long ones, I seldom three-putt. And that helps. For instance, a couple of birdies on the par 5s and one on another hole will give you a three-under-par score.

"You can get birdies on the par 5s with two putts, and you're almost bound to lay a shot dead for another one." Sounds easy, doesn't it? We must try it sometime.

S. C. Cage Fives Battle for Two Tourney Berths

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 20.—(P) Southern conference basketball teams headed into the final three days of the 1941 campaign today with two berths in the annual championship tournament yet to be filled.

North Carolina's defending champions, who will be top-heavy favorites to repeat when the title event opens in Raleigh next week, have won 13 straight loop games. They have clinched spots in the annual eight-club playoff for the title.

Battling for the two remaining positions are Richmond, Wake Forest, North Carolina State and Clemson.

South Carolina, William and Mary, Washington and Lee, Virginia Military Institute and Duke also have clinched spots in the annual eight-club playoff for the title.

Tom Walsh, president of the Professional Golfers Association, announced at Miami today that a poll of the tournament committee won approval for the meet at Cherry Hills, July 7 to 13.

This will be the first time the colorful play has been staged in the mountain section. The first National Open ever held in the west was played at Cherry Hills in 1938.

Purple Victory Would Clinch Tie for Crown

Columbus Must Beat Monroe Tonight To Retain Title Chance.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS. That hectic battle for the Big Seven League basketball crown will reach a climax on widely separated fronts tonight when Boys' High of Atlanta, wind up their league season with a joust against Tech High at Henry Grady court here at 8 o'clock, and Columbus High goes to war with the Monroe Aggies in Columbus.

These jousts are all-important in that should the Purples down the cellar-dwelling Smithies they can do no worse than tie for the crown, and Columbus can maintain their chance for a stalemate for the crown by thumping Whack Hyder's five. Columbus quits loop competition for the year tomorrow night when they travel to Monroe to battle the same five.

SEEK NINTH. Dwight Keith's quint will be seeking their ninth straight victory when they tackle the Smithies. The latter, under the expert nursing of Coach Swede Phillips, have come a long way since the season began and may "scare the mule" of many a Purple supporter ere tonight's game is over. They would like nothing better than to plop the Keith machine ignominiously from the league lead. Just to give their ancient rivals something to remember them by and all that sort of stuff, you know.

PURPLES FAVORED. But, even so, the Purples face the barrier as odds-on favorites and should win going away, barring stalemate. It is no secret that Clint Castleberry and Dixie Cohen are the finest pair of guards to sport the Purple spangles in many a year. Blond Johnny Doyle, on his good nights, can be counted on for a point total hitting well into two figures. Elongated Red Hughes, a new man when the season began, has been a sensation, being high scorer on a number of occasions despite his infrequent shots at the basket. He is a crisp artist and makes 'em all good. And young Bobby Gaston always plays a whale of a floor game.

Slim Tom Hobby, who has been closing like a house afire, may prove a tartar in the favorites.

Jackets Rally To Beat Georgia

It was tied nine times. Georgia held an upper hand throughout the first 10 minutes of the second half, leading 36 to 31, with a quarter still to play. It was mainly the excellent hitting of Big Joe Killian which kept the Bulldogs in the running.

JACKETS COME BACK. However, after Tech tied the score at 38-all with seven minutes left, Blackwell, Buck Stevens and Jim Hearn started hitting from all angles and the Jackets gradually pulled away.

Blackwell, along with Crosby, was the big star for the winners. He fired eight field goals through the bucket for 16 points. Killian and Captain Dan Kirkland were the heroes in defeat, the former getting 14 points and the latter 13 in addition to holding Tech's Carlton Lewis to three foul shots.

Kirkland sent the Bulldogs off to a two-point lead by tipping in one of Chatham's shells with the game less than a minute old. However, Crosby and Blackwell sank field goals to make it 6-2 in favor of Tech.

Georgia rallied fast and took an 8-6 lead after seven minutes had been played. They went on from there, nip and tuck, until Crosby and Blackwell sent Tech ahead, 17-12, with five minutes left in the half.

BULLDOGS OPEN UP. But it was a short-lived lead. Chatham, Kirkland and Moore got field goals to send Georgia back into the lead, 18-17. Lewis tied it up with a free throw but Moore added a field shot to give Georgia its half-time lead.

Georgia commanded play in the first minutes of the second half. At one time the Bulldogs held a 29-23 advantage and again were in front 36-31. But then Tech started its closing rush which carried them comfortably ahead after Stevens made three points when he was fouled while sinking a crisp shot to tie it up, 38-38.

It was Tech's first victory over an Elmer Lampe-coached Georgia five. The Bulldogs had previously won five straight. It also, was the first defeat at the hands of Tech for three Georgia seniors, Killian, Kirkland and Roy Chatham.

Constitution Staff Photo—H. J. Slayton. NOW LISTEN, COACHIE!—Shorty Doyle, Boys' High football coach, was all up in the air the other day at spring practice about the way he was being manhandled by his new 15-year-old, 263-pound guard-tackle. "Anyway, he has a good name," philosophizes little 212-pound Shorty, even if he does spell it wrong. The big boy is Leo (The Lion) Doyle.

Doyal Scared, Amazed, Happy As 263-Pound Gridder Pops In 15-Year-Old Leo Doyle Quits Paper Route To Join Purple Football Forces.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS. Shorty Doyle was seated quietly in his office. Suddenly he was conscious someone was in the doorway. He looked up. He blinked. He jumped to his feet, wildly looking about him for an exit. There was none. Summoning up all his courage, the Boys' High grid mentor bellowed, "Where on earth did you come from? Whadda you want? Get out of here!"

"Coach, don't be alarmed," came a friendly voice from the doorway. "You haven't got the D. T.'s. I'm real. I'm just a fellow who wants to play some football for you."

263-POUNDER. "I'm Leo Doyle, 15 years old, am 6 feet 3 inches tall, weigh 263 pounds now and weighed 11½ when I was born. I just quit my paper route to play football for you."

Now completely at ease, the Purple coach volunteered, "You are going to be a big boy when you grow up. I'll bet your daddy is a big man in this town; isn't he?"

"Now, he's just a runt. Weighs 125 pounds," returned the cause of Shorty's fright. "You know, son, you scared me out of 10 good years of my life. Why I haven't seen so much beef since I was a kid. I visited the Chicago stockyards. But I'm mighty glad you came in. I have been worrying a lot about where I was going to get someone to replace Kale Alexander, Jake Cox and Don Glenn. That whole side of my line was wiped out by graduation. But now my worries are over. You can take their places nicely, I believe. Yes, son, I'm mighty glad you came in."

WRONG SPELLING. "By the way, how do you spell your name?" "D-O-Y-L-E, sir. I'm Johnny Doyle's cousin. He plays basketball here, you know." "Humph," grunted Shorty D-O-Y-A-L. "You don't know how to spell. Can you run?" "Well, I remember running once years ago, coach."

"Can you run fast? That's what I want to know." "That's what I want to know, too, coach. Let's go out to the field and we can both find out." "We'll do that, Leo, but first I'll have to find a uniform to fit you. I don't know whether you can fill those boys' shoes or not. But I'm positive you can fill their uniforms."

TOUGH BATTLE. The battle for amateur honors isn't going to be a tea party, either. Jennings Gordon, Georgia champion from Rome, and Charlie Dudley, Greenville (S. C.) player, are among those here. Gene Gaillard and Tommy Barnes are coming from Atlanta. So are Pros Bobby Stowe and Charlie Edwards. Barnes won last year's trophy for low amateur.

The tournament program will get under way Friday with a promoter event, but the heavy firing for cash and keeps won't begin until Saturday when 18 holes of the 54-hole tournament are scheduled. The final 36 holes will be played Sunday.

Zale Risks Title Against Mamakos

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—(P)—Some of the hardest hitters in boxing's middleweight division will blast away at the Stadium tomorrow night in the first championship fight card here in three years—and the fans are showing an unusual degree of excitement about it.

Tony Zale, of Gary, Ind., the National Boxing Association's 160-pound champion, will risk his crown against Steve Mamakos, of Washington, D. C., in the top bout of a card which also features a match between Al Hostak, who lost his title to Zale, and George Burnett, Negro slugger from Detroit.

McDermott Hits 53 Per Cent of Shots

By THAD HOLT.

If a baseball player should hit .530 for an entire season, flags would be raised, whistles would blow, husbands would make up with their wives, Republicans would back a fourth term for Roosevelt, Judge Landis might even smile at a club owner.

But when Bobby McDermott, member of the Celtic basketball team, which plays the Police Crackers at Warren Sports Arena Sunday afternoon, shoots 53 per cent of his long shots for virtually an entire season, it is just sort of taken for granted.

Still, there never has been anything like this McDermott boy who recently was hailed by Tom Meaney in PM as the greatest basketball player of all time. Any man who can hit the middle of that basket more than half of the time every night in the week, playing on a different court each game, is a genius.

POINTS WIN GAMES. Folks can talk all they want to about the Celtics' magic and trickery and intricate plays, but these beautiful formations would be useless if the Celtics were not expert marksmen. After all, getting the ball through that hoop is 90 per cent of the job.

The Celtics are a great shooting team. Of course, McDermott is their ace, but Nat Hickey, Paul Birch, Davey Banks and Ash Resnick can draw a bead on that basket from almost any angle. Even Pat Herlihy, the rangy Irishman, who plays center, has blossomed into a point getter of no mean ability in recent years.

Basketball fans, coaches and players will be all eyes and ears at the clinic to be staged by the pro champions during the half. The Celtics promise to really put on a show as a sort of expression of appreciation to Atlantans for their past loyalty.

SEARS VS. SEWELL. Sears-Roebuck and Sewell Service will clash for the state women's title in the semi-windup.

BOBBY McDERMOTT. (World's No. 1 Player)

These outstanding sextets finished the state tournament in a deadlock and there is much interest in this title game.

Young Men's Syrian Association faces Techwood Merchants in the curtain raiser at 1:30 o'clock.

Bill Curry, southern weight-lifting champion, will give an exhibition of his strength as an added attraction. Mr. Curry will lift a piano and a man to play the title.

Tickets for the show are on sale at Adam Hat Store and Reeder & McGaughey.

Decatur Elks Win Over Sears, 59-43

The Decatur Elks defeated the basketball team of Sears-Roebuck, 59 to 43, last night at Decatur. The Sears five substituted for the scheduled Atlanta Crackers.

Sears led Decatur, 19-16, in the closing minutes of the first half, but the Elks tied the count, 19 to 19, as the period ended.

Iverson led Decatur's offense with 23 points. Cartwright sank 17 for the Sears team.

In a preliminary the Sears girls tied with Walthour & Hood, 28-28.

Baggett and Lockwood Win in Gloves Meet

14 Fights Billed Tonight in Finals of S. E. A. U. Tournament at Auditorium.

One lightning thrust, which produced a knockout, and bloody-nosed technical kayoes featured the Golden Gloves boxing tournament at the city auditorium last night.

Jimmy Scruggs, Fort Benning, planted a fast right on Sam Coggins, Fort Benning, and brought to a quick end one of the best boxing matches of the evening. The scrappers had appeared even just before the lightning struck.

Phil Ragazzo, a former national Golden Gloves champion, won over Jimmy Blanton, of the Atlanta Boys' Club, but he did so only after a fine battle, in which experience was the difference.

Beginning with the opening bout, in which Leo Williams, Piedmont College, outlasted Roy Robinson, College Park, the semi-final show ran off fast and produced plenty of action.

Two technical kayoes enlivened the 21-bout card. Tate Stewart, Carrollton, produced the first TKO over Walter Miller, and George Lockwood, Pensacola, forced Lester Emmett, Braselton, to quit when the latter attempted to fight with a badly cut forehead.

Jack Monroe, another former national champion, advanced to the finals with a forfeit over Cliff Taylor, Fort Benning. The Monroe-Arthur Burke, winner over Grady Favors, Macon, bout is scheduled to be one of the headliners tonight as the Golden Gloves meet in the finals to determine the sectional winners and the chance at further glory in New York.

Fourteen bouts are scheduled for the finals tonight. Six are scheduled in the novice class and eight in the all-important open classes.

RESULTS.

NOVICE DIVISION.
Flyweight: Leo Williams, Piedmont College, won decision over Roy Robinson, College Park, Ga.
Bantamweight: Glenn Young, Atlanta, lost decision to Lawrence Bradley, Atlanta.

Morgan Is Named Opelika Director

OPELIKA, Ala., Feb. 20. (AP)—School authorities announced today Malvern Morgan, Auburn three-letter athlete, had been signed as athletic director at Opelika High.

Morgan will take over March 10th, succeeding Billy Hitchcock, who leaves March 1st to report to the Kansas City Blues. Hitchcock had accepted the coaching job here for only one season.

Morgan won letters in football, basketball and baseball, playing as a regular in all three sports for three years.

SAYS

Lil Youngs To Be Attendant At Garner-Curry Wedding

• • • WHEN GENEVIEVE GARNER becomes the bride of John Curry in far-away Texas on February 24, Lil Youngs will be the attractive maid of honor and only attendant. The bride-elect is the granddaughter of former Vice President of the United States John N. Garner and Mrs. Garner, and the lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tully C. Garner.

Lil departed last week for the Lone Star State to enjoy the social festivities preceding the wedding, which will be a brilliant event taking place at 8 o'clock at an Episcopal church ceremony in Amarillo next Monday evening. It so happened that she was visiting Genevieve when she had her first date with John last summer, these charming girls having been classmates at Arlington Hall, in Washington, D. C. Lil is the daughter of Mrs. Louise McHan Youngs, and Mrs. A. C. McHan is her maternal grandmother.

Bishop Goodrich, of Kansas, will perform the impressive ceremony which will unite Genevieve and John, who will reside in their newly built home on a ranch five miles from Amarillo. John is an oil magnate and plays an important part in the petroleum business in Texas. He and his bride will honeymoon in Florida.

Ice-blue marquisette posed over blue taffeta fashions the becoming costume to be worn by Lil at the wedding. The gown features a heart-shaped neckline and bishop sleeves, and Lil will wear a silver and blue turban and carry a bouquet composed of yellow tulips. Following the wedding she will visit the former Vice President and Mrs. Garner at their ranch at Uvalde, Texas, for several weeks before returning to Atlanta.

• • • DOWN IN FLORIDA at

Twin Trees, the handsome estate of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kitchings, in Sarasota, a trio of popular Atlantans are being entertained at a number of social affairs as the houseparty guests of Mrs. Kitchings. The group includes Mrs. H. Clay Moore, Mrs. Marion P. Candler and Mrs. Patsy Quinney Armstrong. Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Candler left yesterday by motor for Florida, and were joined in Jacksonville by Mrs. Armstrong, who has been visiting her son and daughter, Dan and Alice Bowden, there for a week.

Twin Trees is located in the beautiful Whitfield Estates section of Sarasota and is one of the handsomest in the state, having been formerly owned by one of the Ringling brothers of circus fame. Mr. and Mrs. Kitchings have been at their winter home since the beginning of the year.

• • • SOMETHING NEW in wedding decorations is described in a letter from Margaret Rogers Williams to Mrs. Peeples Rogers, her mother. The innovation was featured at the altar when Leewood Shaw and Edward Pape took their vows last Saturday in Quincy, Fla.

Blue rays from diffused lighting fell upon the altar at the end of the long living room. White candles were banded at the left of the altar and a glass tree with branches made of white gladioli formed the artistic decoration at the right. Toasts to the lovely bride and handsome groom were proposed with sparkling champagne, and Leewood and Edward mingled with their guests for several hours after the ceremony.

In case you have forgotten, the Shaw-Pape evening ceremony took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Shaw, parents of the lovely Mrs. Pape.

• • • DANIEL WHITEHEAD HICKY, the well-known southern poet, read some of his poems last evening before the birthday meeting of the Poetry Society of Georgia. The auspicious occasion took place in Telfair Academy in Savannah.

Among the poems read by the poet was "The Dunes," which is published in the March issue of McCall's Magazine and which is so worthy of his efforts that the poem appears here below:

Can they be gone, these sands we trod together,
Gone like the hours and days that lie between

The first warm breath of spring and August weather—
Is there no shell remaining that has known

Your sunlit feet in passing, nor a gull

Returning to these rocks with querulous eye

Marking our bodies' length stretched beautiful

As burning amber under a burning sky?

The sand-grass rides the wind, yet still I see

No stalk we broke, nor where the stalk has lain.

No fortress that we built a little way

Beyond the dunes so that it might remain.

Time or the tide it was; whichever one

I cannot know, who walk the beach alone.

• • • OVERHEARD at the cocktail party given for Vereen Bell, author of "Swamp Water," by his publishers, Little, Brown & Company. . . . Paul and Mildred Seydel telling friends about the exciting telephone conversation they had Sunday with their son, Paul Jr., and his wife, Helen Clark Seydel, who are in Switzerland. . . . Minnie Hite Moody being congratulated on her new book, "Long Meadows," which will be out next month. . . . and appearing much more interested in a newspaper clipping of her daughter, Mary Lou, who was pictured on a bobbed with a group of classmates at Denison College, and to whom her mother refers as "The Blue-Eyed One." . . . Jack (Daniel Whitehead) Hicky bidding a breathless farewell to friends before rushing off just in time to catch the train for Savannah for a lecture appearance. . . . Petite and blond Mrs. Vereen Bell being complimented right and left on her fetching black bonnet that boasted a veil and long streamers tied under her pretty chin. . . . Mrs. Arthur Powell telling friends that her daughter, Grace Powell Hammond, of Baltimore, Md., will arrive for a visit the latter part of March. . . . Mrs. Angus Cameron, of New York, whose husband is editor of Little, Brown & Company, introducing the guests to each other and entrancing everyone with her graciousness. . . . The honor guest being "lionized" by everybody there. . . . and being asked if he would go to Hollywood for the filming of "Swamp Water," which already has been bought for the movies.

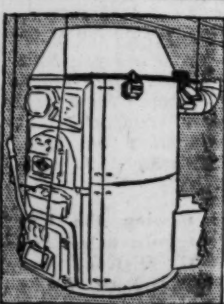

For Mrs. Webb.

Mrs. D. D. Webb, who has recently moved here from Savannah, was feted recently at the bridge-luncheon at which Mrs. R. L. McWhite entertained at her home on Clement drive.

Guests included the hostess' sister and guest, Mrs. R. H. Jones, of Savannah; Mrs. Ira L. Collins, Mrs. D. A. Williams, Mrs. F. E. Heiff, Mrs. W. L. Barbon and Mrs. R. C. Astins.

Military Ball To Be Given Tonight for Reserve Officers

A colorful and brilliant event will be the military ball to be given this evening by the Fifth Congressional district chapter of the Reserve Officers' Association at the Biltmore hotel.

The dance will be given at the conclusion of the celebration of National Defense Week, in honor of the Reserve Officers who have been called to active duty and for officers of the 179th F. A. Regiment, "Atlanta's Own," which leaves shortly to enter active service.

In the list of distinguished guests for the ball are Brigadier General and Mrs. John P. Smith and Colonel and Mrs. Clifford C. Early.

A no-host dinner will precede the dance at 6:30 o'clock, and the ballroom will be decorated in the national colors of red, white and blue.

The receiving line will form at 9 o'clock and includes Lieutenant John T. Carlton and Miss Louise Mackay, Lieutenant-Colonel Mrs. Percival S. Moses, Brigadier General and Mrs. John P. Smith, Colonel and Mrs. Clifford C. Early.

The grand march will be led by Lieutenant John T. Carlton and Miss Louise Mackay, Lieutenant-Colonel and Mrs. Percival S. Moses, Brigadier General and Mrs. John P. Smith.

Mrs. Gershon Speaks To League Today.

Mrs. Harry M. Gershon will speak at the meeting of the Atlanta branch of the Pan-American League this morning at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Joseph E. Buffington, president, will preside.

Mrs. Gershon recently returned from South America, where she spent several months working with Dr. Samuel Guy Inman, author of "Latin America."

The program will be concluded by a motion picture, "Southern Neighbors," presented by O. S. Bandy.

Plans will be discussed for organization of a weekly meeting downtown, where Spanish food and the Spanish language will be enjoyed.

Dinner will be served at 7 o'clock followed by the meeting at 8 o'clock.

ACT FAST WHEN A COLD THREATENS

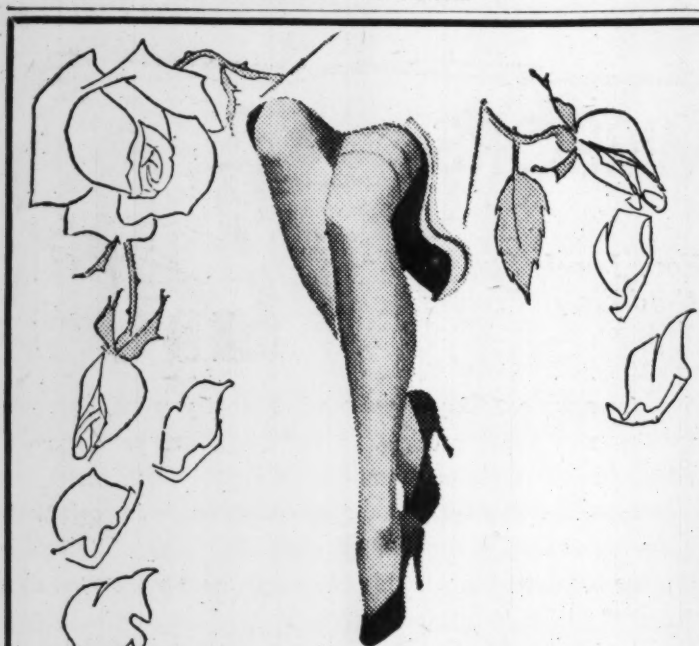

Use This 3-PURPOSE Medicine

At the very first sniffle, sneeze, or sign of a cold put just a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril. If used in time, Va-tro-nol's stimulating action actually helps prevent many colds from developing.

... And remember this, when a head cold makes you miserable, or transient congestion "fills up" nose at night, spoils sleep—3-purpose Va-tro-nol gives valuable help as it (1) shrinks swollen membranes, (2) relieves irritation, (3) helps flush out nasal passages, clearing clogging mucus. Enjoy the relief it brings.

DR. AND MRS. MARVIN SMITH JR.

Miss Matthews, Dr. Smith Marry at Winship Chapel

The Winship chapel of the First Presbyterian church was the scene yesterday for the marriage of Miss Queenie Matthews, beautiful daughter of Al Matthews, and Dr. Marvin Reddick Smith Jr., of Cordele, which was quietly solemnized at high noon.

Dr. Harold Shields officiated in the presence of only members of the immediate families of the couple. An appropriate musical program was presented at the organ by Dr. Charles Sheldon.

The altar was artistically decorated with floor baskets filled with Easter lilies placed against a background of stately palms and ferns. The floral arrangements were flanked by cathedral candelabra holding burning white tapers.

Escorting guests to their places were the bride's brothers, Dr. Thomas Matthews, of Boston, Mass.; Al Matthews Jr., Dr. Charles Howard and Alton Kirkland.

Miss Ann Kilby Smith, of Cordele and Brunswick, the groom's sister, was the bride's maid of honor and only attendant. She chose for her becoming costume an aqua crepe gown fashioned with a round neckline and bracelet length sleeves. She wore a matching felt hat trimmed with a brown veil. Completing her stylish outfit were a pearl necklace, a gift of the bride, and brown accessories. Her dainty flowers which were arranged in the shape of a muff edged with pink tulle included pale pink carnations centered with camellias shading from blush to deepest rose.

Al Matthews gave his lovely daughter in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Dr. Ferrell Lane, of Lavonia. The bride was beautifully gowned in a dusty rose crepe gown topped with matching fitted jacket fashioned with long sleeves and a high neckline. She wore a matching felt bonnet graced with a long, brown veil. For something old she wore a gold cross which had belonged to her mother, the late Mrs. Al Matthews.

For something borrowed she wore a handsome diamond pin which belongs to Miss Helen Wooten, of Barnesville and Atlanta. She carried a muff showered with white carnations, valley lilies and centered with a cluster of white orchids.

The bride's aunt, Mrs. Ed Matthews, was gowned in a black crepe dress worn with a shoulder spray of white gardenias, and a black felt hat trimmed with feathers. Mrs. Al Matthews Jr. wore a black sheer suit trimmed with white and worn with black and white accessories. Mrs. Charles Howard chose a navy blue sheer suit trimmed with white lace and offset by navy accessories.

MISS HELEN DUMESTRE.

Miss Dumestre Will Be Maid At Mardi Gras Ball Tonight

Miss Helen Dumestre, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Dumestre, of Avondale Estates, is among the attractive visitors participating in the Mardi Gras festivities in New Orleans, La. This evening she will be one of the six maids-in-waiting to the queen at the brilliant ball to be given by the Krewe of Hermes, of which her uncle, Clarence E. Staus, is the member. It is considered a signal honor to be invited by the various Krewes to be a member of one of the courts, the names of the queens and their maids being unveiled until their entrance at each ball.

Hosts at the balls include the Krewe of Comus, which entertained last evening; Krewe of Hermes, hosts for this evening; Krewe of Proteus and Krewe of Rex. Among the most exclusive social events of the winter season in New Orleans, these balls are all held at the city auditorium and are attended by invitation only.

The queens, seated upon handsome thrones, and the members of their courts, which include the maids and their escorts, present a sparkling tableau of beauty and color. Garbed in elegant and beautiful costumes, the masked guests watch the brilliant spectacle from special seats, and those who wish to dance may do so only when they are called, a call-card system being used at all four of the balls.

Miss Dumestre, who is a popular sophomore at Duke University, in Durham, N. C., flew to New Orleans Wednesday to join her parents and her brother, Jack Dumestre, who are also attending Mardi Gras as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Staus.

SNEEZY WASHDAYS ARE OUT OF DATE—use New "Anti-Sneeze" Rinso

At the cost of nearly a quarter of a million dollars—but without added cost to you—the New Rinso has been made 98% free of sneezy "soap-dust". Many widely used package soaps contain up to a quarter pound of irritating "soap-dust"! And the New "Anti-Sneeze" Rinso washes clothes shades whiter than old-type soaps. Leaves washable colors bright, too.

New Rinso with its "suds-booster" goes so much farther than the old It's Like Getting Free Soap Every 5th Washday

AUNT JENNY SAYS—

"Make all your pies this Spry FULL FLAVOR way—you'll get compliments by the bushel!"

Try this Spry FULL FLAVOR Apple Pie with Currant Jelly

1 recipe Spry pie-crust	1/4 teaspoon salt
6 large tart apples, thinly sliced	1 tablespoon butter
1/4 cup sugar	2 tablespoons currant jelly

Roll 1/2 of dough and line a 9-inch pie plate. Fill pie shell with sliced apples. Mix sugar and salt and sprinkle over apples. Dot with butter. Moisten edge of pie. Roll remaining dough and cut in narrow strips. Arrange on top of apples to form a lattice top. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) 50 to 60 minutes. Remove from oven and place bits of currant jelly in open places on top of pie. See what tender, flaky crust Spry gives and so delicate-tasting that you get the FULL fruity tang of the filling. Use pure Spry for all pastry—for FULL FLAVOR cakes and fried foods, too.

Spry Piecrust

2 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour	3/4 cup Spry
1 teaspoon salt	5 tablespoons cold water (about)

Sift flour and salt together. Add 1/2 of Spry and cut in until mixture is as fine as meal. (See how easily triple-creamed Spry mixes!) Add remaining Spry and continue cutting until particles are size of a large pea. Sprinkle water gradually over mixture. With a fork, work lightly into a dough. Add just enough water to moisten.

(All measurements in these recipes are level)

Tender nut-sweet Spry-crust lets you get that FULL rich fruity taste...doesn't "smother" flavor as pastry made with ordinary shortening may

EVEN the tiniest hint of off-flavor in your pastry will hide some of the deliciousness of the filling. Don't take chances. Make all your pies with pure Spry and see how the delicate Spry-crust brings out the FULL flavor goodness of the filling.

Try this glorious new version of your favorite Apple Pie. Peeping through the crisp-crust top are luscious golden apple slices, their flavor heightened by a tangy touch of currant jelly. Underneath is crust so flaky and tender it breaks at the touch of your fork. Second helpings? They'll want thirds! And they'll call you the queen of pie-makers. Make one today and see. Notice how easily Spry mixes. It's purer, too, and stays fresh longer. Three big extra advantages and only Spry gives all three! Change to Spry for all baking and frying. DEVIL'S WORK

By CAROLYN WELLS

Austin Offers To Take Over Financial Matters---Also Tells Jean He Loves Her

SYNOPSIS. Jean Seiden is in love with Brandon Sayre, an explorer, but is dazed by Vivian Forrest's ardent love-making and wealth and marries him. Vivian is a beautiful, makes no secret of his various love affairs and after two years Jean leaves him but she must consider her baby Florimel. Sayre is a member of a house party at palatial Forrest Fall on Long Island and Jean knows her love for Brandon is not dead. Other guests are Florimel, Anne Fraser and Suzy Kirk and all, including Vivian's half brother, Austin, are practicing for a fencing tournament to be held there. Then Vivian brings as a guest Esmé, a French girl, a pretty movie actress, insisting that Florimel's choice nursery room be turned over to her. Vivian has a daily 15-minute fencing period with Jean who also is an expert. Jean leaves at once one night after they fence. His guests notice that he totters; then he drops dead. Dr. Gregg, the family physician, says more phine caused death, though he notes a small foil wound on the neck. All the guests then Jean and Austin are questioned by Medical Examiner Peterson. District Attorney Mitchell and Police Inspector Eastman who do not know then that Vivian had told Jean that Esmé was to be a permanent member of the household. After Vivian's study, the Robert W. Campbell, for a long time, says he hid his last will in that room. Esmé, who she holds a million note, signed by Vivian, is now the only one who goes on with the story.

INSTALLMENT XXI.

"Gosh! That's so! Why, of course, Mr. Eastman, believe we can lay our hands on that in two minutes!"

"Let's go," said Eastman, tersely.

"No," Jean said, with decision. "I don't want to open that slide until Mr. Campbell is here. And he is coming this afternoon. We will leave it till then. A few hours will make no difference."

When at last Eastman excused Jean, Austin followed her to her rooms. "May I come in, just for a minute?" he said.

"Just a minute," she said. "I have a date with my small child, very soon."

"But I want to talk, it's really necessary. We are the heirs, in any case. We must plan what to do in the event of one development or another. And, Jean, you are no business woman, and you know it. You are too pretty to be a business woman. So, I think you'd better put the business part in my hands. This will relieve you of all trouble and responsibility."

"Oh, nonsense. There's no real business to be done. Just sign checks and receipts and Mr. Campbell will do the rest."

"That's all you know about it! Why, there's enough business to keep an able-bodied man busy eight hours a day. If you think you can swing it, go right ahead. You must know enough to buy and sell stocks advantageously, how to manage the real estate deals, and to attend to the taxes and rents and mortgages, and about a thousand other such things."

"Oh, mercy, Austin," and Jean looked overcome. "Even if I could do such things, it would take all my time and what would become of my precious child? Can't you get an expert accountant, or whatever they are, to take over the job?"

"That's what I want to talk to you about. I could get somebody that could do it all up, but the chances are he would swindle us out of our eyeteeth. They're all alike, fine at first, and then falsify the books, grab a small fortune and vanooose."

"Oh, that would be awful!"

"Yes, I know. That's why I want to do it myself. I have a real talent for that sort of thing. Viv said so herself. I did a lot of it to help him."

"I didn't know that."

"Why should you? Yes, I worked mornings, while you were with the baby. I enjoyed it, you know, and Viv was glad to pay me for it."

"But I can't let you give up your time for me, like that!"

"Why not? I'd do more than that for you. And it's so easy. You just give me power of attorney, you see, and I look after everything, pay the bills, sign the checks, and you have no bother at all."

"Oh, I shall be glad if you'll do all that for me!"

"Jean, you have no idea what I would do for you, if you'd let me. You have no idea how I have loved you all the time you were Vivian's wife. I never let you dream of it—I would have been treacherous to my brother, so I buried it deep in my heart, and there it is still."

"Austin! Stop! How dare you say such things to me?"

"Forgive me, Jean, darling—I lost my head—you are so lovely, so wonderful, and—Vivian isn't here now—"

"Hush, you frighten me!" and Jean looked more frightened than angry.

"I don't want to do that," Austin's voice was low and gentle. "I forgot myself, but I won't do it again. Oh, Jean, not now—not soon, but some distant day, won't you listen to my prayer?"

"No, Austin, put any such thing out of your mind."

"I will. I will obey whatever you say. Just let me live where I can see you now and then. You can trust me, Jean. You must know that after proving me for two years with Vivian here. You do trust me, don't you? You must!"

"Yes, I trust you, Austin. But you must make me continue to do so. There must never be a repetition of this scene."

"Of course. I always have been."

"Yet you married Viv."

"The carried me by storm. I was inexperienced, ignorant, poor, and he dazzled me with promise of riches and happiness."

"And you had them?"

"The riches, yes. The happiness—not with him, but with my child. How you love that little mite! Do all mothers love like that?"

"All real mothers, I think. Now, do run along. I want to go to Florimel. I will agree to all you said regarding business matters, but you must promise never to tell me again that you care for me. It is wicked."

"Oh, is it? And I suppose it isn't wicked for you to love Sayre and have been loving him all the time you were married to another man!"

"I admit it, Austin. I am wicked—I have been wicked. But I shall never be again. As soon as the police let Brandon go away, I will forbid him ever to see me again."

"In six months you'll be married to him." He gave a ringing laugh. "Well, I right, you aren't married yet, and the game's never out till it's played out. I say, Jean, let's talk sense a minute. What about that note Esme says she has?"

"I think she has it."

"And you think it's genuine?"

"How could it be otherwise?"

"But Viv couldn't have been such a fool."

"Vivian could have been any sort of fool where a woman was concerned."

"Yes, mentally, morally and physically. But not financially—not to that extent."

"Austin, even you don't know all the money Vivian gave to women. Even I don't. And I doubt that he meant her to have this great amount. But I do believe Esme has the note and that it is valid. Can't we find out soon?"

"Ought to be looked into tomorrow. I'll speak to Campbell. Yes, we ought to know."

"There are so many things we ought to know. We want to know where the will is—if there is any will."

"Suzy will probably find it. She's on the rampage. I never saw such energy."

"I hope she will find it, and soon. Now, I'm going to Florimel."

Sunday afternoon, everybody was searching for the will. It had become a sort of game. There was a fascination about it, that increased with their diligent but unsuccessful efforts.

Notwithstanding Jean's entreaties, her drawer of sewing work was turned out again and again, but with no results, except to tangle her silk skeins and disturb her lacework bobbins and spools.

When Campbell came, Jean and Austin told him they had thought of a good hiding place, and so sure were they that it was the right one, they wanted the lawyer to be present when they disclosed it.

Campbell eagerly agreed, and stood by as the two Forrests approached a piece of furniture that looked like a chest of drawers.

It was a small rosewood affair, of French make, and beautifully finished. At first glance, it seemed to have seven shallow drawers, one below another, and as Jean opened one drawer, Suzy laughed outright.

"Why, Jean darling," she said, "we have been through those drawers a hundred times! They hold only playing cards and dominoes and dice and checkers and such games. Nothing doing there."

"So you say, Suzy, but have you looked in every part of this thing?"

As Jean spoke, she put her hand far back in the drawer she had hidden spring, and from between two drawers came forth a sliding shelf on which lay a paper, plainly marked, "My Will."

"At last!" Austin cried. "You've found it, Jean! You must open it!"

Campbell stood near as Jean lifted the paper. It was a folded sheet, and as she opened it, Campbell could see at a glance that the text thereon was too short for a will.

Nor was it a will. It read:

"Regarding my will. If you haven't found it yet, keep right on looking for it. It is in my plain sight, its container is in plain sight. Good hunting! Viv."

Jean shuddered, and was glad to find Sayre standing back of her, as he laid his hand lightly on her shoulder.

"It's like a voice from the dead," she said, in a low, quivering tone. "And that's what it is," Austin declared, without emotion. "And it's just what we wanted. It's encouragement; it gives us fresh hope. Come on, let's look some more."

"I wish I had your spirit," Jean said. "I'm ready to give up. I think it's one of Vivian's practical jokes, and I'm not going to look any more."

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 19th (ARIES)—An excellent day for real estate transactions, correspondence, literary endeavor, dealings with relatives, industrial affairs and matters of a romantic nature. The best aspects of the day operate previous to 2:15 p. m.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—Today is an excellent day to decide just what you want to do. Make more contacts. Revive old ones. Press your pet projects. Be as cordial and expansive as you desire. Make some definite plans for the ensuing year.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—Previous to 1:15 p. m. favors contracting influential people. Between 1:14 p. m. and 4:28 p. m. favors attending to old matters. The remainder of the day does not especially favor old plans. Stick to routine.

June 21st and July 22nd (CANCER)—Previous to 2:48 p. m. is the better portion of the day when you should make every effort to get conditions set in motion for progress. Between 2:48 p. m. and 6:50 p. m. care should be used to hold your peace and do not take on new obligations. After 6:50 p. m. favors meetings and conferences.

July 23rd and August 22nd (LEO)—If you have someone special to contact and want your interview to proceed smoothly, make your engagement before 11:30 a. m. Between 11:30 a. m. and 12:06 p. m. favors work requiring mental activity. The afternoon and evening hours favor general business activities.

August 23rd and September 22nd (VIRGO)—Today until 6:38 p. m. you should go ahead with courage and confidence, when you can advance your ambitions, but don't waste time in frivolities. After 6:38 p. m. favors social interests.

September 23rd and October 22nd (LIBRA)—This may be a day of conflicting emotions, when you should avoid petty quarrels, unwise speculations. Use care around water and liquids, and be suspicious of people who want you to go into secret affairs. An excellent day to be careful of your health, especially the digestive tract.

October 23rd and November 21st (SCORPIO)—It will be wise to keep an eye on money matters today, for the tendency is towards extravagance and misjudgments. The evening hours after 9:14 p. m. suggest unusual caution to avoid sharp and severe disappointments resulting from unexpected situations.

November 22nd and December 21st (SAGITTARIUS)—The morning hours operate before 12:40 p. m. for pleasant and profitable contacts in financial, domestic affairs and business. The remainder of the day and evening favors sticking to routine.

December 22nd and January 19th (CAPRICORN)—The morning hours and until 11:15 a. m. favor important plans, dealings with those in authority, buying, selling, trading and matters connected with sharp and severe disappointments with organizations and for working on affairs that have a systematic foundation.

January 20th and February 18th (AQUARIUS)—The entire day and evening favors financial, domestic, social and business interests. The hours between 2:04 p. m. and 7:04 p. m. are especially good.

February 19th and March 20th (PISCES)—More will be accomplished today if you go along the path of the least resistance and continue efforts—that have been started previously.

FOUNDER'S DAY—Agnes Scott will present its sixteenth annual Founder's Day radio program tonight at 8:30 o'clock over WSB. Dr. James R. McCain, president of Agnes Scott, will outline the history of Presser Hall, a new building on the campus, and William Cole Jones, local newspaper executive, will talk on its value to the community. The Agnes Scott Glee Club will sing several selections during the program, which is the first to be broadcast from the campus of this institution.

GLAMOROUS SINGER—Golden-voiced and glamorous Jeanette MacDonald will sing two songs in her co-starring role with her screen star husband, Gene Raymond, when the "Playhouse" presents the play, "Wreck of Delivrance," tonight at 8:30 over WGST.

Raymond has the role of a young physician who has lost his surgical "nerve" and his career has slipped into a wastrel's life in South America. Miss MacDonald is an opera star in a South American city. When Miss MacDonald becomes ill aboard a ship, Raymond is called in, and promptly falls in love with her. From here the play works itself to an exciting climax.

ALLEN JONES GUEST—Singing star of screen, stage and radio, Allan Jones, and two promising young actresses from Paramount studios will be cast in an original drama during the "Kate Smith Hour" to be heard over WGST tonight at 7 o'clock. Susanna Foster and Dolly Loehr are the starlets who will share the spotlight with Jones. Kate will sing three songs on her variety program while the comedy assignments will go to Charlie Cantor and Minerva Pious.

PLEASURE TIME—Fred Waring and his company of half a hundred Pennsylvanians will entertain radio listeners with another quarter-hour of music tonight at 10 o'clock over WSB. Donna Dae, Two Bees and a Honey and the Glee Club will handle the lyrics to several popular numbers.

CRIME STORY—"Crime Versus Circumstance" is the title of the thrill drama to be enacted on the "Johnny Presents" program heard over WGST tonight at 8 o'clock. Ray Block, his orchestra; Swing Fourteen chorus and Soloists Beverly and Audrey Marsh are to be heard in the musical portion of the program. The play, another in the "Perfect Crime" series, was written by Max Marcin.

Insurance Protection Given Those Who Apply For It

By Capt. Gene Morgan.

"My son soon is to be drafted. What will happen to the insurance policy he has been paying on for five years?"

The United States government has agreed to protect the existing life insurance policies against lapse because of nonpayment of premiums. This is available to all persons in the military service, Army or Navy, men or women.

Under the provisions of the Veterans' Administration, this insurance protection will be provided to all who apply for it. The government in this protection guarantees the insurance premium payments during the entire life of the military service and for one year thereafter. The insurance policy must have been issued and a premium paid before October 17, 1940, or not less than 30 days before entering military service. The maximum amount of insurance allowed under this premium is $5,000.

Under this act, the person insured is allowed one year after leaving active service to pay back the guaranteed back premiums and to resume the normal payments himself and thus keep the insurance in force. This insurance is, of course, entirely separate from the government insurance allowed soldiers and sailors.

U. S. Colonel's Ex-Wife Admits Nazi Activity

Mrs. Crockett Demands $8,000 for Visit to Hitler in Berlin.

Disclosure at San Francisco that the divorced wife of a lieutenant colonel in the United States Army now stationed at Fort Jackson, S. C., was an admitted Hitler agent in this country and Germany yesterday aroused keen interest among hundreds of Georgians stationed at the South Carolina post and their families in this city and state.

The woman, who filed a suit in superior court in San Francisco, demanding that Fritz Weidemann, German consul, pay her $8,000 for acting as his secret agent in Berlin, was Mrs. Alice Crockett, former wife of Lieutenant Colonel Gilman K. Crockett, commanding officer of the 13th Infantry.

Lieutenant Colonel Crockett is well known in Georgia and attended the graduate officers' course at the Fort Benning infantry school in 1924, and was assigned to his present post August 3, 1940, from State College, Pa. He is a native of New York. Details of his espionage from Mrs. Crockett were not disclosed.

According to Mrs. Crockett's suit, Weidemann in 1939 had a misunderstanding with three of Nazidom's big shots—Hitler, Goebbels and Goering—regarding his ability to discharge his duties as chief of the Nazi espionage and propaganda services in the United States.

Her suit further set out that Weidemann, whose office recently sprang into news prominence when an American sailor tore down a Nazi flag from its staff jutting out a window, agreed to pay her $500 a month and expenses to sound out the Nazi leaders. She stated she remained in Germany from June until December, 1939.

She stated also that she saw Hitler, Goebbels and Goering "five or six times" and when she returned to this country was able to report that Hitler thought Weidemann was the "best man for the job we have to do in the United States."

Mrs. Crockett's suit further arranged on "a social basis" and that she met Weidemann when she called at the consulate to inquire about relatives in Germany.

She was described as being 37 years old, with a round, plump face and dark bobbed hair. She is a native of Zurich, Switzerland. Her present occupation is governess.

The woman's divorced husband became a second lieutenant in the organized reserves in Massachusetts. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in the regular army in October, 1917, and was promoted to first lieutenant in July, 1919, to captain July, 1921, and to major August, 1935.

Weidemann said the suit was "ridiculous," adding: "My record is clear; the entire suit is without foundation." He also said he repeatedly had refused to give Mrs. Crockett a job in the consulate and that she had tried to borrow money from him.

Otto A. Hoecker, consulate attorney, said Mrs. Crockett introduced herself at the consulate in 1939, saying she was greatly impressed with Nazism and that she wanted to work for it in the United States.

Nazis Smash South Wales Second Night

Two Alarms Sound in London; Little Action Reported.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—(Friday)—(P)—Two air raid alarms sounded in London last night and early today, but the Luftwaffe concentrated their assault for the second straight night on objectives in South Wales.

The second alarm came shortly before 1:30 a. m. and the all-clear was sounded about two hours later, with little action being reported.

A single high-flying plane brought searchlights into play and anti-aircraft batteries fired a few rounds.

London had had an earlier last night.

Flying by starlight the Germans roared over London and towns in west England, southwest England and south Wales, where the industrial port of Swansea bore the brunt of a Wednesday night raid.

Soon after midnight, the raiders made a heavy attack on a town in south Wales (perhaps Swansea again), coming over in a steady stream and dropping a large number of incendiary bombs, followed by high explosives. They were met by intense anti-aircraft fire.

Nineteen dead and 52 wounded were removed from a large London municipal hospital, one wing of which was "blown apart by a direct hit last night."

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

Paris Mothers Riot for Milk To Feed Tots

Hold Children in Air, Shout Demands for Food.

VICHY, Feb. 20.—(UP)—The first food riots in Paris occurred in three workers' suburbs late yesterday when mothers demanded milk for their children, according to reports reaching Vichy.

The disorders, said to have been on a small scale, occurred in the suburbs of Brunoy, Suresnes and Saint Denis in the "Red Ring" of Paris. Authorities of the German-held capital accused Communists of provoking the troubles.

Simultaneously in the three suburbs mothers swarmed around the town halls, holding their children in the air and shouting demands that they be given milk.

The demonstrations were quickly brought under control without police interference, it was said.

PRESIDENT—Dr. Champ Holmes last night was elected president of the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association.

You'll certainly smile again if you use Constitution Want Ads.

Tuberculosis Group Elects Champ Holmes

Progress Outlined in Address by Dr. J. M. Beeler.

Dr. Champ Holmes was elected president of the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association at a meeting of the organization last night.

Other officers are Miss Marion Woodward, Thomas Howell Scott, and Dr. Elizabeth Broach, vice presidents; Lewis D. Sharp, treasurer; Dr. A. Worth Hobby, chairman of the medical staff; Dr. Harvey Payne, chairman of the dental committee; Miss Mary Dickinson, executive secretary, and Forrester B. Washington, president of the colored branch.

New directors named were L. L. Austin, Cobb Torrance, S. O. Phillips and Representative Helen Douglas Mankin.

Dr. J. Moss Beeler, superintendent of Grady hospital, in an address outlined progress made in the hospital movement during the past year, and Dr. C. M. Sharp discussed future steps in the growth of the tuberculosis sanatorium at Battle Hill.

Mrs. Abby Weaver presided at a forum discussion of the role of the field nurse in tuberculosis control, and Dr. E. A. Bancker talked on the clinic physician as related to tuberculosis control. Mrs. Daisy Bagwell talked on health education as a means of control, and Milton Bell reported on the results of the seal sale for 1940.

When placing your Want Ad in The Constitution inquire about the attractive seven-day rate.

Buffalo Bill's Kinsmen Serve With British Army

DENVER, Feb. 20.—(P)—Two great-grandsons of Colonel William F. (Buffalo Bill) Cody, famed western scout, are with the British armed forces.

Mrs. Frank Behn, Buffalo Bill's granddaughter, wrote from London in a letter received today by Denver relatives that her son, John, had been wounded and was in a hospital in Turkey. Another son, Anthony, was evacuated from Flanders.

Mrs. Behn's mother is Mrs. Arta Cody Bosl, daughter of the scout and showman.

Baltimore Plane Firm Will Triple Facilities

BALTIMORE, Feb. 20.—(P)—Glenn L. Martin today disclosed a program tripling his airplane factory facilities, and said his plants would "be producing $36,000,000 worth of airplanes a month by June, 1942."

Prize-Winning Recipes For This Week

Hamburg Macaroni Ring

Submitted by Mrs. Lester Ruth, 401 13th Ave., Cordele, Ga.

One package macaroni
2 cups grated American cheese
2 cups hamburger (1 pound)
3 tablespoons butter or margarine

1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs
2 cups milk
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
Pepper to taste

1 1/2 teaspoons grated onion
Break macaroni in 3-inch pieces and put in rapidly boiling water with 2 teaspoons salt. Cook until tender, drain. Make sauce by melting butter, add soft bread crumbs and milk, salt and pepper and stir until smooth. To about 3-4 of the sauce add cheese and cook over low flame until smooth. Add macaroni. Put in well-greased ring. To the rest of the sauce add onion and hamburger. Put in ring over cheese and macaroni mixture and bake in moderately slow oven, 350 F., about an hour. Fill center of the ring with carrots and peas or any desired vegetable.

Impromptu Fish Balls.
Submitted by Mrs. Robert C. Blair, 1546 S. Gordon St., S. W., Atlanta.

Chop finely 1 pound of fillets that have been freed of skin and bone. Place in a bowl and add 1-2 of 1 stick of butter, salt, pepper, paprika and 1-2 pint thick cream. Work until smooth—roll into tiny balls—roll in flour and fashion into patties. Fry in clear cooking oil or shortening. Place on hot platter and pour over them the following:

Menus for Lent

Originally, Lent was a time of actual fasting. The early church specified that a certain number of ounces of food be taken each day, and these ounces were to be taken of stated foods. By all except the most devout, Lent in this modern day, is observed by abstaining from meat on Wednesdays and Fridays and by giving up some favorite food or drink for the whole 40-day period. Thus we couple self-denial with our ideas of good nutrition. In planning Lenten meals we make sure that though the meal be meatless it maintain the balance that is necessary for health and energy.

Lent begins on Ash Wednesday, February 26, and especially for those who will observe it, we offer these recipes for main dishes on meatless days.

Fish Stuffed with Shrimp.
1 pound cooked shrimp.
1 egg.
1 cup cream.
1 cup cooking sherry.
Pepper, salt, paprika.
1 boned red snapper.
1 teaspoon chopped truffle (optional).

Put shrimp through grinder. Beat egg and one-half of cream together. Mix shrimp and seasoning, stir into egg and cream, mixing to a smooth paste. Place mixture on one side of fish. Sew fish together with twine and place in baking dish pouring remaining cream over fish. Bake in moderate oven 45 minutes. Served garnished with sliced cucumbers in French dressing.

Bread Stuffing for Fish.

1-4 cup melted butter or bacon drippings.
1 beaten egg or 1-4 cup hot water.

1 teaspoon minced onion.
1 tablespoon chopped pickles.

Mix all ingredients thoroughly. Should the egg not make the stuffing sufficiently moist (this will depend on the dryness of the bread crumbs), add a little hot water or fish stock made by cooking the bones and trimmings of the fish.

Vegetable Stew with Dumplings.
Melt 3 tablespoons butter in a saucepan, add 1/4 cup sliced onion and cook slowly until the onion is yellowed but not brown. Add 1/2 cup sliced celery, 1/4 cup diced carrots, 1 cup canned or stewed lima beans, 1 cup canned tomatoes, 1/2 cup diced potatoes and 1 cup shredded raw string beans. Mix lightly, add 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon sugar and 2 1/2 cups boiling water. Cover and boil gently for 45 minutes. Mix 3/4 cup flour with 1/2 teaspoon salt and 2 teaspoons baking powder. Rub in 1 teaspoon butter and then add about 1-3 cup cold water or enough to make a very soft dough—one that is just thick enough to hold its shape when dropped from a teaspoon. Drop the dumplings on top of the boiling stew, cover closely and continue boiling for 10 minutes more. Turn out on a hot platter and sprinkle with chopped parsley.

Bean and Cheese Loaf.
2 tablespoons butter or shortening.
No. 2 can of spiced beans.
2 eggs.
1 teaspoon salt.
2 cups grated cheese.

Brown onion in fat. Mash the beans and combine with all ingredients. Mix thoroughly. Pack into a greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven (350 F.) about 30 minutes. Serve hot with tomato catsup or chili sauce.

English Sandwiches
Submitted by Mrs. Harold Richardson, 2038 Comox St., Vancouver, B. C.

Cut bread in 1 1/2 inch squares. Make a sauce the consistency of icing, with grated sharp cheese and mayonnaise. Cover top and sides. Place in baking pan. Cut thinly sliced bacon with scissors into pieces large enough to cover top of sandwich. Top with a half teaspoon of tomato catsup, place in oven and bake a delicate brown. Serve hot.

Syrian Rice
Submitted by Mrs. W. C. Miles, Griffin, Ga.

1-4 cup white rice
1-4 cup thin spaghetti, broken in 1-4-inch pieces
3 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt
1 small onion, grated
2 1/2 cups hot water

Cook rice and the broken spaghetti in a thick sauce pan, in the melted butter, until a golden brown; add the onion and juice, salt and hot water, and cook over heat five minutes. Remove to double boiler and steam one hour. The rice grains will stand apart and it has a delicious flavor.

Spaghetti With Sauce
Here is spaghetti with a rich, meatless sauce. Directions as follows:

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION
Edited by SALLY SAVER

ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 24, 1941.

Try this cherry nut bread spread with cream cheese. (Recipe in next column.)

Recipes From Mt. Vernon

To honor the father of our country on his birthday we give you these two recipes, one a Dutch cherry cake (pictured below), the other a favorite recipe of the Mount Vernon era.

Dutch Cherry Cake
1/4 cup shortening, melted.
2 cups (No. 2 can) sour red cherries, drained.
1 1/2 cups sifted flour.
1/4 teaspoon salt.
3 teaspoons baking powder.
3/4 cup sugar.
2 eggs, separated.
1 teaspoon vanilla or almond extract.

Sift flour, measure, add baking powder, salt, 1/2 cup sugar and sift together three times. Beat egg yolks and combine with milk, melted shortening and the extract. Add liquids to flour all at once and beat until smooth. Fold in the cherries, then the stiffly beaten egg whites, to which the remaining sugar has been added. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 50 minutes.

Veal Collaps
1 1/2 pounds leg of veal.
Sauterne, Chablis or other white wine.
2 tablespoons butter.
1 small onion chopped
2 cups beef broth.

Few grains thyme.
Grating nutmeg.
1/2 cup bread cubes fried in butter.
4 anchovies.
Salt and pepper.

Flatten thinly sliced veal with a mallet; cover with white wine, letting stand for 2 hours. Heat butter in frying pan, add veal slices which have been salted and peppered. Drop in onions. Pour in half cupful of wine in which the veal has stood, add beef broth; add thyme and nutmeg, and let meat simmer over low fire until tender. Fry the cubes of bread in butter—then add.

Place callups on a hot serving platter, strain the sauce over them—pressing the fried bread through the sieve. Top with an anchovy laid on a slice of lemon and serve.

Escalloped Salmon and Ripe Olives
1 1/2 cups flaked red salmon.
1 cup drained whole kernel corn.
1 1/2 cups crumbled soda crackers.
1-4 cup finely cut green sweet pepper.
Salt.
Pepper.
6 thin slices orange.

Combine olives, salmon, corn, cracker crumbs, green pepper, salt and pepper to taste and blend. Combine white sauce and beaten eggs and mix. Pour over olivesalmon mixture and blend well. Pour into a buttered casserole or baking pan and place orange slices over the top. Bake in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) 30 minutes. Serves 6.

A salad served without bread or rolls is like cake without icing. Hot rolls enhance any good salad. Try quick prune rolls with a fruit plate. Or, slice crisp French rolls an inch thick and spread with cheese. Toasted, these cheese slices are perfect with a tossed green salad.

Split, buttered and toasted English muffins with marmalade are excellent with a salad of grated carrots and cheese-stuffed prunes.

A few drops of lemon juice added to cream that proves difficult to whip often brings about the desired result. Be careful to add only a few drops though, to avoid souring the cream.

APRICOT LAYER CAKE.
This makes a two-layer cake in 8-inch pans. Work 1-3 cup butter to a soft cream (or use margarine or any shortening you prefer.) Gradually beat in 1 cup granulated sugar and then add 2 eggs and beat for 3 minutes. Measure 2 cups all-purpose flour and mix with 1-4 teaspoon salt and 2 1-2 teaspoons baking powder, then sift twice. Stir 3-4 cup milk into the butter mixture and then add the flour. Beat to a smooth batter and pour into 2 well greased layer cake pans. Bake 20 to 25 minutes in a moderately hot oven—375 degrees. Remove from the oven, cool slightly and then remove from the pans. When cold spread cooked mashed apricots between the layers and cover the top and sides with the following icing: Mix 1 unbeaten egg white with 2 tablespoons apricot juice and 1 teaspoon lemon juice, then beat in 1 cup sifted confectioner's sugar. Beat until very smooth and fluffy, then gradually add more sugar until the icing is stiff to spread without running — or about 2 cups sugar in all.

For a surprise treat have prune sandwiches made like this:
2 cups graham flour
2 cups flour
1 cup light brown sugar
1 cup chopped cooked prunes (unsweetened).
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 egg beaten (2 yolks)
2 cups sour or buttermilk
3 tablespoons fat, melted.

Mix ingredients and half-fill greased loaf pans. Let rise 15 minutes and bake an hour in a moderate oven. Make into sandwiches, by cutting into thin slices, spreading with butter and then cutting into oblong or fancy shapes.

Cherry Nut Loaf.
1 cup canned sour cherries
1 cup sugar
3 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder.
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 1/2 tablespoons grated orange rind
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1 cup milk
1-2 cup chopped nutmeats
Cream cheese

Cut the cherries in halves; add one-fourth cup of the sugar. Sift the flour before measuring, then sift it with the baking powder and salt. Combine the remaining three-quarters cup of sugar with the beaten egg, orange rind, butter or margarine, and milk, and add this to the dry ingredients. Fold in the cherries and nutmeats. Pour into a well greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, one hour, or until done. Slice and serve with cream cheese.

Molded Ring Of Cottage Cheese
Cottage cheese is an excellent food, providing all the elements of milk, except the cream. Because its proteins are of good quality and its calcium is in easily used form, cottage cheese is fine Lenten food. Use it for salads or dessert. Make the dessert ring this way:

Moisten cottage cheese with rich cream and add a dash of salt. Press firmly into ring mold which has been rinsed in cold water and set in refrigerator to chill. Unmold on platter and fill center with sweetened fruit, or berries. Or the center may be filled with wine jelly.

For salad ring, moisten cheese with mayonnaise, add a bit of finely chopped onion or chives, and fill center of ring with chopped or sliced vegetables. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise or French dressing.

Here is spaghetti with a rich, meatless sauce. Directions as follows:

Garnish with quarters of hard-cooked eggs. The tomato-mushroom sauce may either be served from a side dish or combined directly with the spaghetti before serving.

As the Lenten season approaches, Mrs. David McCullough, 331 Redland road, a prominent Episcopalian, looks over her files and notebooks in planning menus for fast days.

Ideas From a Cook's Notebook

Spices, flavoring extracts, condiments of all kinds are used to increase the attractiveness and flavor of foods, thus aiding in stimulating the flow of the digestive juice and the process of digestion itself. In themselves they have little food value, but they are invaluable for making otherwise plain food more palatable.

To slice hard cooked eggs without breaking yolks, dip the knife in cold water, repeating frequently. Let the eggs cool in the water in which they are cooked to keep them a good color.

A few drops of lemon juice added to cream that proves difficult to whip often brings about the desired result. Be careful to add only a few drops though, to avoid souring the cream.

Lowndes Places

Bounty on Foxes

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
VALDOSTA, Ga., Feb. 20.—With terror increasing in all parts of Lowndes county over attacks on persons and animals by rabid foxes, the county commissioners today placed a bounty of $2 per head on foxes delivered to the county authorities.

The commissioners also ordered the compulsory vaccination of all dogs in the county, and County Agent R. E. Miller was instructed to arrange for a supply of serum and a schedule for vaccination at various concentration points in the county. The owners of the dogs are to pay for the treatment. Several persons are under treatment against rabies, and a number of farm animals have been killed after developing rabies.

Postal Officials Destroy 15 Tons Of Propaganda

Most of Pieces Come From Russia and Germany.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(UP) The Post Office Department disclosed tonight that more than 15 tons of foreign propaganda mail has been seized and destroyed.

Confiscation of the mail—75,000 pieces—was announced by Postmaster General Frank C. Walker in a letter to Senator Kenneth McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, chairman of the Senate Post Office Committee.

Walker suggested to McKellar that congress provide new and more stringent regulations governing movement of foreign mail in the United States.

Seizure of the propaganda was made under regulations designating it as "nonmailable" because the sender had failed to register with the United States government as a foreign agent residing abroad.

Walker said most of the material emanated in Germany and Russia and came to this country via Pacific mail routes.

Some came from Japan, "with small amounts from Italy and England," he said.

25 Per Cent Higher Goal For Red Cross

Goal of 43,060 Members Set for Drive To Open March 10.

To keep its "Clock of Service" ticking in 1941 as in 1940 the Red Cross of Atlanta, Fulton and DeKalb counties will open their annual membership drive on March 10. It will continue through April 5.

Goal for 1941 will be 43,060 members, an increase of 25 per cent over the 1940 membership of CHOLERA SERUM.

VALDOSTA, Ga., Feb. 20.—The Lowndes county commissioners today approved free distribution of cholera serum for Lowndes county hogs, and County Agent R. E. Miller was instructed to put the treatment into effect immediately.

34,973, Oby T. Brewer, chairman of the drive, said yesterday.

"The Red Cross is able to do its job, every hour of the day, every day of the week, month in and month out only because it has sufficient interested and enthusiastic personnel to keep it going," Mr. Brewer said. "The job was a big one last year, but we were able to meet every emergency, local, or national. Next year it will be an even bigger job and we need more help. Each chairman of division must meet his quota."

"Time is the important element. We are getting ready for something that will strain every resource of our organization. It may never come, but we've got to be prepared to act promptly if called upon. We are, in a way, in the front line of defense—defenders against disease, disaster, and distress.

"The local chapters have a heavy program of work ahead. How well it is to be done depends upon the success of the Roll Call. We must have more members if we are going to give more service. We've got to have them soon, for the alarm may sound at any hour and we must always be ready, around the clock."

Devil's Island Refugees

May Join With DeGaulle

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 20.—(AP)—The Daily News said today one of eight Devil's Island convicts deported from here January 7 had written that they would be permitted to join General Charles de Gaulle's "Free French" forces in London.

The letter, sent to Frank Sauliere, news reporter, said the Frenchmen had been informed by Paul Lauvergne, de Gaulle's representative in Puerto Rico, that they would be sent to London instead of being turned over to French authorities at Martinique.

Army Needs Only Best Men-Hatcher

"The day has passed when any Tom, Dick and Harry who couldn't fit in at home could be pawed off on the Army. Today our military set-up requires that only the cream of young manhood be admitted," Lieutenant Colonel H. H. Hatcher, of state selective service headquarters, told the Decatur Civitan Club yesterday.

Describing the mechanics of Georgia's 188 boards in selecting men for the Army, Colonel Hatcher said modern methods of warfare make it necessary for every man to be a fighting unit, mentally, and morally will be capable of serving the country as soldiers in the field.

Dual Bridge Dedication Scheduled for March 13

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. CARROLLTON, Ga., Feb. 20.—Joint dedication of bridges spanning the last two gaps in the 1,710-mile Taft highway from Canada to Florida were projected by Carroll and Heard counties today for March 13, with ceremonies at Franklin and Carrollton, climaxed with a banquet at West Georgia College.

Invitations are being sent to all county chairmen of the Taft Highway Association, and to city and county officials along the route in Georgia, Carrollton Mayor Stewart Martin said.

Committee on arrangements for the celebration includes I. S. Ingram, T. R. Luck, L. E. Roberts and Richard Newell, all of Carrollton. Z. P. Almon, of Franklin, is on the invitation committee.

36 Georgians Will Receive Purple Heart

Decoration To Be Awarded at Fort McPherson Tomorrow

Old Hickory Chapter of the Military Order of the Purple Heart will award the Purple Heart decoration to 36 Georgia men at Fort McPherson tomorrow afternoon, Commander Fred Barrow announced yesterday.

This decoration, originated by George Washington and revived recently, is given to men wounded in action or cited for bravery.

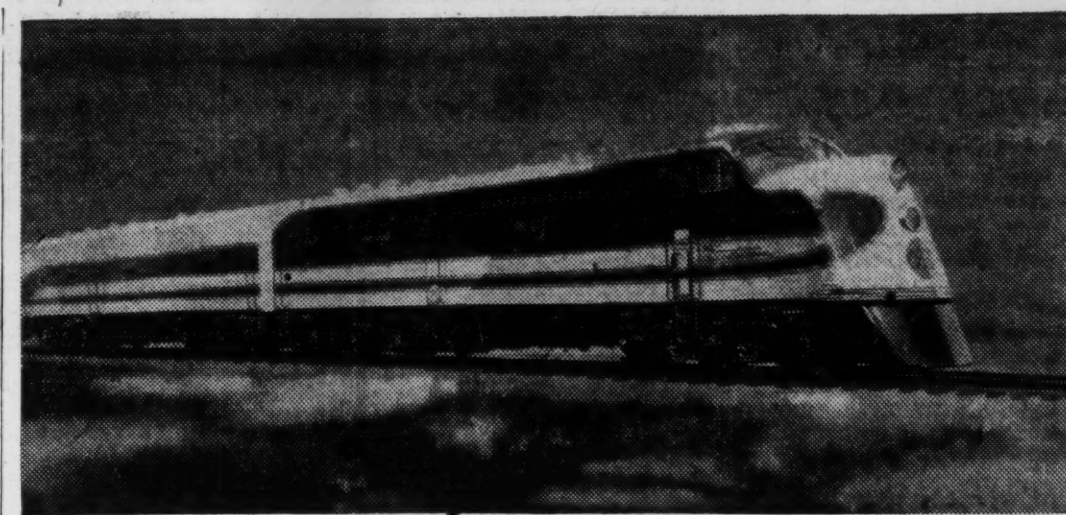

The ceremony will follow a Defense Week program and a parade of troops.

Old Hickory Chapter is holding a Washington's Birthday dance that evening at the City Auditorium, with Harry Hearn's orchestra, in order to raise funds for the Purple Heart national convention in Atlanta in the summer.

In order of name, company, regiment and division, those to receive decorations are:

Archie Blair, 105th Infantry, 30th; S. E. Brand, 61st Infantry, 37th; Wallace Blackley, 61st Infantry, 37th; Frank Burton, 12th P. A., 2nd; L. C. Cabel, 12th P. A., 2nd; William Caldwell, 32nd Infantry, 82d; T. U. Cone, 78th, 6 M. G., 42d; Menace W. Davis, 1st Infantry, 24th; Claude A. Ligon, 1st Infantry, 24th; Charles O. Lambert, 1st Infantry, 24th; Elmer S. Holmes, 1st Infantry, 24th; John H. Owens, headquarters, 118th Infantry, 30th; Robert H. Perkins, 1st Infantry, 24th; Angelo Quabley, 1st Infantry, 24th; William A. Simon, 32nd Infantry, 82d; Clifford R. Shirley, 30th Infantry, 30th; D. N. Stever, 1st Infantry, 24th; R. A. Suss, 1st Infantry, 24th; B. H. Thomas, 1st Infantry, 24th; Robert L. Thompson, 1st Infantry, 24th; James F. Welch, 1st Infantry, 24th.

ALMOST READY—Southern Railway's all-coach de luxe streamliners are nearing completion and "The Southerner," which will ply between New York and New Orleans, will go on about March 20, it was announced yesterday. It will require three complete trains for the 1,387-mile run between Gotham and the Crescent City. The powerful Diesel-electric locomotives to be used on "The Southerner," one of which is shown above, will be painted bright green and silver.

Low Draft List Hints of Jam in Army Housing

Georgia's March Quota Is 1,200 Less Than Was Expected.

An unexpectedly low draft quota calling for only 768 Georgians in March suggested yesterday the possibility of a slow-down in the capacity of the Army for receiving new men.

The February call for the state was for 1,332 men, and Lieutenant Colonel H. H. Hatcher said Georgia headquarters had expected to be asked for approximately 2,000 for next month, in line with an original schedule to place 12,000 Georgians in service by July 15.

The March call is for 375 white men and 393 Negroes.

This month only about one-fourth of the quota for the state called for Negroes because lack of training facilities at the time the call was issued prevented a proper percentage between the races.

Fourth Corps Area officials said they did not consider the March call unusually small and scoffed at the idea of a "bottleneck" in the Army training schedule.

Fort McPherson has been inducting approximately 250 men into the Army each day, and can accommodate that number indefinitely without any trouble, officials said.

Men called in the March quota will be inducted between March 11 and March 20.

Other states in the Fourth Corps Area, except South Carolina, also showed declines in their quotas, the total dropping from 14,771 in February to 6,550.

Electric Hot Bed Built in Floyd

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. ROME, Ga., Feb. 20.—Building of an electric hotbed for production of truck crops featured a demonstration at the Floyd county home on the Kingston road yesterday under the direction of J. L. Calhoun, rural electrification specialist from the State College of Agriculture.

The demonstration served a double purpose. The hotbed was built for farmers to observe the procedure taken in its building as well as to produce plants for setting the truck fields about the county home.

Hotbeds of this type have become popular for the production of sweet potato, tomato, egg and pepper plants, and others that require early seeding.

National Income Gains Four Billions in Year

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Jesse H. Jones, secretary of commerce, estimated today that the national income last year was $73,800,000,000, an increase of $4,400,000,000 over 1939.

He added, however, that income payments received by individuals in the form of wages, dividends and other forms were larger than the national income. They totaled $74,300,000,000. The national income was the highest since 1929 and 84 per cent above the depreciation loss in 1932.

Coroner's Jury Finds Death Due to Poisoning

A DeKalb's coroner's jury said yesterday "alcoholic poisoning due to excessive drinking" was responsible for the death of Jacob M. Dorminy, civil engineer at Camp Gordon, who was found dead in an automobile on Osborne road late Wednesday.

Dorminy formerly lived at McRae and Nahanta, Ga., and had worked at Camp Gordon only about a week, it was said.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by A. S. Turner.

Rural School Scholars Shrink in Rhode Island

Some rural schools in Rhode Island may have to close their doors because of lack of pupils.

School communities, in an effort to save taxpayers' money, are making long-range plans to decrease classes, drop teachers—and where necessary, close schools.

Peak enrollment in country schools was reached in 1934, according to figures quoted. This then and the birth rate has dropped 10 per cent since that is expected to be shown in school attendance next year.

HOSTESS—Chief hostess for the new streamliners, Miss Wanda Myers, of Washington, here today to make a talk before railway safety gathering, shown dressed in the tailored blue-green gabardine uniform and beret. Five hostesses will be required to staff "The Southerner."

Jerry the Bear, Zoo Bachelor, Dies of Old Age

Lifelong Grant Park Resident Succumbs in His 16th Year.

Jerry the bear is dead. Old age and the cold were too much for him and yesterday morning at the ripe age of 16 he died in the cage at the Grant park zoo that had been his home for a lifetime.

A native Georgian, he came to Grant park as a vigorous young cub, and spent the rest of his life entertaining the old and young alike who gathered in front of his cage.

He wasn't very big or ferocious. He only weighed 400 pounds and was always just a little bit outclassed by his fellows at the zoo—vicious polar bears, terrifying grizzlies, and a big brute from the Himalayas.

Most of his life, he was quiet and peaceful, and only once did they have any trouble with him. That was eight years ago when in a fit of humor, he mangled and seriously injured Ernest Nelson, one of his keepers.

After that, he was good-natured, and never gave any trouble, even at the last when he grew sick and weak.

He remained a bachelor all his life, so there's not even a cub in mourning. There won't be a funeral, and his hide is too old to make a decent rug, so the body will be cremated at the city incinerator.

Dollar Value of Autos Second Best in History

DETROIT, Feb. 20.—(AP)—The trade publication, Automotive Topics, said today that dollar value of new passenger car registrations in 1940 was the second highest in history, totaling $3,012,060,000. This was exceeded only in 1929, peak production year, when new passenger cars sold in the United States totaled $3,257,744,000 in retail value.

The periodical adds that 81.8 per cent of the 1940 car sales were in the class priced at the factory at less than $1,000, against 89.3 per cent in that group the previous year.

Huge Deficiency Bill Is Passed by Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(AP)—The Senate passed today a $395,357,775 deficiency appropriation bill, carrying $375,000,000 for work relief activities during the next four months.

Passage was on a voice vote. The bill now goes back to the house for consideration of amendments.

The measure carried $7,217,775 more than the sum voted by the house. Increases included $6,670,000 for defense housing; $269,000 for the naval training station at Newport, R. I., and $253,775 for the naval training station at Great Lakes, Ill.

Nazis Have 20 Mexican Bases, Canadians Told

Lindbergh, Ford Called Quislings to System They Live Under.

TORONTO, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Sir Howard D'Egville, secretary of the Empire Parliamentary Association, told the Ontario legislature today that 20 secret air bases in Mexico are operating for the benefit of the Axis powers.

His statement was described as a reply to assertions of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh that North America is safe from invasion by air.

Lieutenant Colonel George Drew, conservative leader in the legislature, said relations between Canada and the United States could be improved if Canadians "do not hesitate to condemn such men as Henry Ford and Colonel Lindbergh-Quislings to the system under which they live."

Sir Howard told the legislators that war losses of merchant shipping could continue at the present rate for years without danger of starvation in Britain.

Tobey Charges Maryland Vote Was Illegal

Senator Says Quayle 'Lied Brazenly' to Committee.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(P)—Senator Tobey, Republican, New Hampshire, charged tonight that in the last Maryland election "a seat in the United States senate was gained by illegal methods."

Senator Radcliffe, Maryland Democrat, was re-elected to the senate last fall, defeating Harry W. Nice.

Tobey made his charge in a supplemental report designed for inclusion with the report of the senate campaign expenditures committee. His accusation was based on what he said were excessive and illegal expenditures in the Maryland Democratic primary.

Earlier, Tobey filed with the committee another supplemental report in which he asserted that Oliver A. Quayle Jr., manager of the Democratic national committee, had "lied brazenly and unhesitatingly" to the senate committee. He referred to Quayle's testimony that he arranged for $100,000 in loans by R. J. Reynolds Jr., wealthy North Carolinian, to the New York and New Jersey state Democratic committees. Reynolds testified that Wayne Johnson, chairman of the Democratic finance committee, approached him about the loans, and Quayle later changed his testimony to agree with Reynolds.

George Plans Final Speech For Aid Bill

Senator Predicts Passage by End of Next Week.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
Staff Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Forced by illness and a hoarse voice to take an inactive part in the early stages of the debate on the administration lease-lend bill giving all-out aid to the British, Senator George now plans to deliver the final speech in favor of the measure when debate closes next week preliminary to a vote.

The Georgia senator had originally planned to open the debate for administration supporters. To that end he had prepared a comprehensive speech for delivery. Due to illness it was necessary for Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, the majority leader, to substitute for him.

As the Georgia senator appraised the situation today after taking over the direction of the fight, passage of the bill by the end of next week is now in prospect, with only a negligible number of senators voting against final enactment.

Even Republican members, constituting the bulk of the opposition, are now expressing some concern private lest too many of their own group vote against the bill. Senator McNary, the Republican minority leader and G. O. P. vice presidential nominee in the 1940 election, is reported to be working quietly to bring about as much of a split in Republican senatorial rank as possible, fearful of the political consequences if the party puts up anything approaching a united front against the legislation.

BAMBY BREAD
The germ and husk of wheat grains, containing nature's most potent health elements, are removed in the process of milling white flour.

But science has lately discovered how to restore this highly essential ingredient without affecting color, taste or texture of the bread.

So, Bamby is the first bakery in this market to give you delicious white bread with the same vitamin B(1) as contained in a 100% whole wheat loaf.

No Increase in Price

It is traditional of Bamby bakers to be first to introduce innovations calculated to improve the quality and flavor of its bread. For 50 years it has followed that policy, and now comes the greatest improvement of all—

White bread with the same vitamin B(1) units as contained in the average 100% whole wheat loaf.

It is claimed by nutritionists that six slices of this bread eaten daily supplies the required vitamin B(1) for the average individual.

Notwithstanding the additional cost, we have not advanced the price nor decreased the size of the Bamby loaf.

City To Protest Any Change in Intangibles Tax

Proposed Revision Will Cost $385,778 Yearly, Officials Say.

Formal protest against proposed revision of the intangibles classification tax act by the Georgia legislature, which would cost the municipal treasury $385,778 a year based on 1940 receipts, was being drafted yesterday by city administration leaders.

Sacrifice Is Theme Of Defense Speech

All Americans, whether in armed forces or allied industries, must make sacrifices in the name of national defense, Captain S. A. Cartledge, Army reserve chaplain, asserted last night in a National Defense Week address.

Principal speaker at a dinner meeting of Delta Sigma Pi, commerce fraternity, Captain Cartledge talked on the subject, "Modern Minute Men," and described the years' training behind the thousands of reserve officers now on active duty, or preparing to go on duty, with the expanding United States Army.

Leaders in Covington Discuss Airport Plans

COVINGTON, Ga., Feb. 20.—A Civil Aeronautics Authority representative, visiting Covington this week, conferred with Rotary, Kiwanis and other civic leaders on plans for development of a local airport.

Linda Hayes, pretty RKO Radio actress, is shown applying her eye cream. She, like other stars, takes good care to prevent any lines around the eyes—fatigue or age lines.

Make Habit Of Using Eye Cream

By Winifred Ware.

Eyes are the most revealing feature of a woman's face . . . and the expression in them is not disguised from an observant person. But how many women, though realizing this fact, give enough attention to the eyes? She should buy creams and lotions to prevent tell-tale lines and wrinkles of the throatline and take care to pat out double chins. And the point is they should use a cream around the eyes just as regularly and with just as much faith, for the give-away lines around the eyes are as much as age-indicator as the lines on the neck.

At this time of the year, most of us will let up a little in our work and nervous tension in preparation for spring, and a pair of work and play-weary eyes will certainly detract from your new spring face and ensemble. So right here, we'll recommend a certain eye cream beauty treatment to which the lines around your eyes surely will respond.

There are several things a good eye cream should do. For one, tiny little lines of age and fatigue will slowly become noticeable around the eyes without your realizing it, drying of this area must be prevented and overcome, and you must remember that squinting the eyes, which many of us do quite unconsciously, plays havoc with this sensitive area of skin. This cream to which we attach so much importance is excellent for preventing crow's-feet and over-coming squint, laughter and fatigue lines. It counteracts dryness, which is the essential duty of an eye cream. In fact, it's used by many during the daytime, on the lids to keep them moist and attractive.

It's most effective, of course, if left on overnight. Spread the cream over the delicate tissues around the eyes, being especially careful however, not to stretch the skin and pat the cream gently, using the padded part of your finger. If it's just a quick treatment you want while at home, before a date or a special occasion, be sure to leave the cream on at least 30 minutes.

For the name, price and where to buy this cream, call me at WA. 6565. Those who live out of Atlanta should write to Winifred Ware at The Constitution, enclosing a stamped envelope.

Woman's Quiz

Q. Is it proper to use a printed birth announcement for a second child?

A. According to strict etiquette, printed birth announcements are never correct. However, they are widely used, and are just as proper for the second child as for the first.

Q. Please give me a recipe for pineapple lemonade.

A. Use 1-4 cup sugar, 1-3 cup lemon juice, 1-2 cup pineapple juice. Add ice water until the flavor of the mixture is satisfactory.

Have you a household problem to solve? Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, enclose a three-cent postage stamp and mail to The Woman's Editor of The Constitution, 1013 13th Street, Washington, D. C., for a personal reply. Don't telephone; write as directed.

Personal Appearances Are Terrifying Ordeals For Gary Cooper

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20. — When Joan Leslie heard she was to be Gary Cooper's leading lady in "Sergeant York," she fainted. And is still not quite sure whether she dreamed the whole thing. I thought it was bad casting at first. But the actual fact is that the real Alvin York met the girl he married when she was 16, which is Joan's age, and he was considerably older.

When I visit the set, Gary Cooper is lying on a barroom floor, and it is hard to distinguish him from the dust and dirt. Before each "take" Gary has his head, face, and hands rubbed into a tub of mud. (Ugh!) To protect the rest of him, he wears a long woolen union suit underneath his torn, dirty trousers and filthy shirt. "I'd give a week's salary to be able to wash at this minute," he moans. "But what's the use? I have to be dunked in the dirt again."

The last time I saw Gary was in Dallas where we had gone for the premiere of "The Westerner." Since then he has made some personal appearances in Chicago and in describing the experience, says, "I felt like Lindbergh except that I hadn't flown the Atlantic . . . Those ordeals terrify me. I try to hide it, but don't always succeed. Why d'ye think I'm so thin? It's because I'm so nervous." There was much more, including his desire to play Robert Jordan in "For Whom the Bell Tolls." Whoever started the myth of Cooper's non-talkativeness was wrong. The only time I have known Gary to be silent is when he had nothing to say. (Other folks please copy.)

"Sergeant York," incidentally, not only follows the authentic story of the American Number One hero of the last World War, but the Tennessee mountaineer is coming to Hollywood to advise on the picture. At the end of the film, he appears with Cooper for a brief flash.

"Haven't seen you with Bonita Granville lately," this columnist tells Jackie Cooper on the "Her First Beau" set at Columbia.

"That's because," says Jackie, "we don't go to the public places any more. This is what used to happen. We'd go to Ciro's on a Tuesday evening. Next day some columnist would say we were at Ciro's the night before. Two days later, another columnist would write about it. And the next day, someone else. It would seem that we had been to Ciro's every night that week—instead of only Tuesday. So now we go to the places the columnists don't."

"Are you engaged to be married?"

"Not for a long time," Cooper replies. "You see, off the set we are normal people, and Bonita and I are too young to marry." Bonita is 18; Jackie 18. At this point Jane Withers, in a short play suit, bounds over and says, "I must be getting old. This is the first time I've had a leading man smoke a pipe." Cooper thrusts his pipe into his pocket.

Jane, tells me her next movie is a big musical titled "Coast to Coast" (in which she probably will do her devastating imitation of Shirley Temple).

Who Should Know Physiology?

By Dr. William Brady.

Even outright flattery sometimes serves a good purpose. For instance in a moment when I was taking it on the chin the other day came a letter from Mrs. N. W., who says: "For years I have followed your column in our newspaper. You have indeed been an education to me and there are not words to tell you how much you have helped me; not only from the standpoint of health, but in the entire business of life. . . ."

And so on for several paragraphs, and no wonder I burst into tears when Mrs. N. W. works up to this:

"You love to speak the truth without caring for or fearing the consequences."

I was glad the lady couldn't see the state of my chin just then. This compliment of Mrs. N. W.'s reminds me of a letter I received from a medical colleague, oh, many years ago, of course, in which the good doctor expressed his envy of my position, for, as it seemed to him, I could tell the truth and still remain in print, whereas he must perforce taradiddle or deceive his patients and the public more or less in order to remain in practice.

Recently in an article I got my dander up to the point of saying: "If the reader has any confidence in the soundness of my teachings in the field of hygiene, physiology and health, let me repeat that in my belief and opinion constipation never causes any of the disorders from which civilized man suffers."

The response on the part of readers was characteristic of the two views or schools of thought. First, the morbid, introspective, or neurotic view, as in the letter: "I have found your advice generally sound and practical, but sometimes you make yourself ridiculous in your attempt to convince thousands of sufferers that their troubles are only imaginary. You ask us to believe that all other factors who consider auto-intoxication a common factor of ill health are wrong and you are right. . . ."

Second, the sane or rational view, as in this one:

"I want to thank you for freeing me from the physis habit and whole train of minor complaints which evidently accompanied the use of laxatives. I had suffered since childhood, but have been entirely free now for over a year, thanks to your help."

I am saddened and chagrined when readers feel constrained to tell me my teachings about the constipation habit are so absurd, not because it matters if they think they know better than I do about the subject, but because such a reaction shows that my whole train of reasoning is like what it should be, after the many years of experience I have had in the field of health education.

Every detail is thought out and carefully planned. Every room in this hospital is not only attractive but convenient for nurse and patient. The equipment is of the best and arranged in the most convenient way for those who have to use it.

There is no skimping on wages. Everyone receives the average for the vicinity for the type of work they are doing. Babies, old people and young people are cared for equally well.

After much questioning, the only explanation for this remarkable achievement of Dr. Laird seems to be the great care taken to eliminate waste. One other is the preventive medical work which the graduate nurses do when employed by the coal mine owners. Dr. Laird says that after they have been at work for two years there is a distinct drop in the number of people coming in with ailments, which are eliminated by better knowledge of nutrition and general health care.

Dr. Laird should be utilized to teach more young men who are going to work in hospitals all over the country what really good management of a hospital can achieve.

MY DAY: Miners' Hospital In West Virginia

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Wednesday.—A few guests lunched with me yesterday, one or two afternoon visitors and an evening spent happily listening to a fine concert by the Philadelphia Orchestra. Then the night train to New York City and a series of appointments here this morning which I will tell you about tomorrow.

Days ago I promised to write a column about the miners' hospital in Montgomery, W. Va. I hesitated to write about it until I could investigate every possible source to see whether there was something wrong with it that I had not been able to discover. It seemed to me too good to be true, yet I failed to find that Dr. Laird himself, who is so interested in rendering a service to his patients at a minimum cost, was painting too rosy a picture or forgetting to mention some fact which would make this service impossible to duplicate. I have grown skeptical, I suppose, so I kept on trying to find out if there were any flaws in the plan.

I can find no flaw, and so at last I want to tell you what has been done in Montgomery. At the same time I want to pay a tribute of admiration to Dr. Laird and his associates for the remarkable organization and humanitarian approach to this question of hospital care.

Here in a small place in West Virginia, surrounded by a mining area which is none too prosperous—as you may see if you drive past the houses lived in by the miners—there is a hospital which is as well equipped, as attractively furnished, as airy and light and cheerful as any I have ever seen. The nurses seem to give skilled and loving service. There is a training school for nurses, and most of the girls come from miners' families. That, perhaps, is why they know so well how to care for the men and their families, who make up the bulk of patients. The miners receive complete hospitalization for themselves, their wives, children, and aged parents who live with them, for the sum of $1 per month. There is no extra charge for operations, for anesthetics or for medicine. Some of the cases of broken backs have been in the hospital over a year.

Every detail is thought out and carefully planned. Every room in this hospital is not only attractive but convenient for nurse and patient. The equipment is of the best and arranged in the most convenient way for those who have to use it.

There is no skimping on wages. Everyone receives the average for the vicinity for the type of work they are doing. Babies, old people and young people are cared for equally well.

After much questioning, the only explanation for this remarkable achievement of Dr. Laird seems to be the great care taken to eliminate waste. Make Gay Slip Covers For Spring

The very spirit of spring—this gaily flowered slip cover with its new-style deep flounce! You can so inexpensively run one up just like it—to fit any style of chair.

The material is chintz, with blue and white floral pattern, and is sprinkled over a creamy ground. The same shade of blue is picked up in the bound seams. But just as charming would be a striped or checked cotton.

Fitting your chair the pin-on way, everything goes along like magic. Just three simple steps and your cover is finished!

1. PIN AND CUT. Remove cushion and smooth fabric down back and over seat, right side out if you use bound seams. Between back and seat allow a 4-inch tuck-in to relieve strain. Then pin along lines of the upholstery and cut 1-2 inches outside pins for seams. In the same way pin and cut arms, sides, back and cushion.

2. BASTE AND TRY ON. Take pinned-up cover off chair and baste. Then try on for little adjustments.

3. STITCH AND FINISH. Stitch up seams and cover smartly with binding. At this time, too, you sew on the deep flounce, a gathered strip of fabric which comes almost up to the cushion in front.

Attractive slip covers for all types of chairs, sofas, love seats are so simple to make with the directions given in our 40-page booklet, "Making Slip Covers Successfully." Explains every step—estimating material, cutting, fitting, finishing. Has decorator's tips on materials, trimming.

Send 15c in coins for our booklet, "MAKING SLIP COVERS SUCCESSFULLY," to Home Industries, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Vitamin Discovery Brought New Era

By Ida Jean Kain.

In the final analysis, the survival of the fittest depends on the food supply and the story of "The American and His Diet," by Richard Osborn Cummings, assistant professor of history at Lawrence College, drives home the realization that one of the main concerns of the general public during any crisis is the maintenance of an adequate diet.

We are glad we know what adequate nutrition is. That knowledge should, in itself, be the guaranty of a better chance.

Horace Greeley's editorials during the depression of 1837 centered on the huge percentages of malnourished children afflicted with terrible skin diseases. He constantly warned young men to stay away from the cities where so many died of disease induced by want and hunger.

Ignorance went hand-in-glove with want, however, and fresh fruits were regarded as dangerous, especially to young children. During the cholera epidemic of 1832 their sale was prohibited by city councils. Since it was also doubted whether uncooked vegetables could be eaten with impunity, salads were generally supposed to be harmful.

Among the impoverished of the cities, the dietary mainstay was bread. In some of the rural districts, pork was considered "the staff of life." In most sections, fats and starches comprised the main ingredients for the three meals a day. The only things about the diet were the use of sorghum or unrefined sugar for sweetening and the fact that the millers had not succeeded in eliminating the wheat germ from flour.

Even the wealthy, who could have afforded a variety of foods, could not obtain them because of the lack of refrigeration, slowness of transportation and the imperfection of canning methods!

Visitors to this country were impressed by the pasty-faced, stiff-jointed, soft-musled appearance of the Americans. And also by the monotonous round of badly cooked meals. Ill-health was rampant in the cities. Mr. Cummings observes, and dyspepsia was the most common ailment.

With the discovery of vitamins in 1911 a new era in nutrition began. During the first World War families were urged to plant gardens. Later on, there were the 4-H Clubs to further disseminate the new knowledge of nutrition. Auxiliary food substances and frozen foods made their advent on the market along with the depression of 1929. In this emergency, agencies were formed for the purpose of supplying food to the poor families and, finally, food stamps came into use.

Prevention of Diseases That Impair Health of Teeth

Editor's Note: This is the third of a series of authoritative articles on modern dentistry as it affects every man, woman and child in Georgia, approved and released by the Georgia Dental Association.

The condition of the teeth is an economic factor not only from an appearance standpoint, but from a health standpoint as well. The effect of dental infection on the system depends on the virulence of the infection and the resistance of the individual. Some persons are capable of resisting what is apparently an overwhelming load of infection; others cannot resist apparently trivial infections. Thus, dental infection may be the primary cause of a number of diseases and symptoms that develop insidiously and progress slowly, such as headache, malnutrition, loss of weight and neuromuscular and articular pains, all of which reduce productive ability.

A clean, healthy condition of the teeth can be secured without the expenditure of large sums of money, if the teeth are cared for in time.

In recent years, much of the effort of dentistry has been directed toward the prevention of disease. Preventive dentistry includes more frequent cleaning of the teeth, the filling of small cavities and the preservation of healthy deciduous teeth until they are normally shed. It also includes the correction of malocclusion in young children and the early recognition and treatment of infection of the gums.

Good teeth are a health asset. They are a personality and beauty asset. Their care requires some effort, but the results are worthwhile.

Today's Charm Tip

Fight it out with that inferiority sense that prompts you to believe you cannot do a certain thing by trying once to do it, as telling a good story, say, or opening a conversation with someone who awes you, and so on.

Treasury Halts Tax Exemption On Securities

All Future Issues Will Be Subject to Federal Levy.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(AP) The Treasury today wiped out federal tax exemptions for all its future issues of securities—from $25 baby bonds to $1,000 units of standard bills, notes and bonds—and prepared to issue about $2,000,000,000 of new taxable securities within the next two months.

Less than 24 hours after President Roosevelt signed an act raising the federal debt limit from $49,000,000,000 to $85,000,000,000 and giving the Treasury discretionary authority to sell taxable securities, Secretary Morgenthau told reporters of the new program.

He said he planned to: 1—Issue $200,000,000 of 91-day Treasury bills each week starting the first week in March and continuing until further notice. On this operation, the Treasury will get $100,000,000 of new money and use the other $100,000,000 to pay off similar maturing securities.

2—Refund $545,000,000 of 3-8 per cent bonds and $677,000,000 of 1-2 per cent Treasury notes, both maturing March 15. Morgenthau said that "if nothing out of the ordinary happens over the weekend," new securities would be announced next week to be traded for these maturing securities.

Sell on behalf of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation possibly in March, but probably in April, about $500,000,000 worth of securities. He explained that the RFC proposed to use $300,000,000 of the proceeds to repay the Treasury for its past contributions to the corporation. The RFC will keep the remainder for its own needs, particularly the purchase of strategic materials abroad and financing of defense factory construction.

In announcing that these securities would be taxable, Morgenthau said also that all baby bonds sold to the public after March 1 would also be subject to taxation. Income from the securities will not, however, be subject to state income taxes.

Tech Senior Wins Architectural Prize

Vernon M. Shipley, Georgia Tech senior, has been awarded first prize in the annual architectural drawing competitions of the Beaux-Arts Institute of Design in New York.

His design of a modernistic travel agency office won him the $50 prize in the first judging held in the south, which drew 162 entries from 18 colleges.

Twenty southern architects judged. W. Conner Thompson, another Tech student, won first mention.

Coast Guard Going to Rites, Will Establish Family of Five New District Killed in Crash

S. C., Georgia, Parts of N. C., Florida Coasts To Be Included.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(AP) The Coast Guard will establish a new district with headquarters at Charleston, S. C., about March 1, drawing on facilities and men of its Norfolk, Va., and Jacksonville, Fla., stations.

Admiral R. R. Waesche, the Coast Guard commandant, said the new station's territory would include parts of the North Carolina coast, all the South Carolina and Georgia coasts and part of the east coast of Florida. Commander Stephen S. Yeandle will be in charge.

Admiral Waesche said 10 Coast Guard vessels and three lightships would be attached to the new district. They are the vessels Modoc, Tallapoosa, McLane, Narcissus, Pamlico, CGC-228, Agassiz, Cypress, Mangrove and Palmetto and the lightships No. 15, now off Frying Pan Shoals, N. C.; No. 94, off Savannah, Ga., and 109, now on relief duty.

The announcement said the district organization would take in the Charleston base, the Charleston Coast Guard air station and the Ocracoke-Beaufort, N. C.; Southport, N. C.; St. Simons, Ga.; Coast Guard stations and their subordinate stations. The Atlanta recruiting office also will be in the new district, the announcement said.

Construction Awards Boosted 87 Per Cent
NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Engineering construction awards this week totaled $126,113,000, more than double the same week last year, Engineering News-Record reported today.

In addition to this total, contracts for the construction of air bases in Bermuda, Newfoundland, Santa Lucia, British Guiana, Trinidad and Antigua, valued at $34,618,000, were awarded to United States contractors.

Awards for private construction during the week were 87 per cent greater than a year ago, while public work was 164 per cent greater.

Forsyth Filling Station Falls on Top of Truck

The truck, belonging to H. W. Durden, of Macon, drove under the marquee of a station operated by C. P. Fonder. In driving out, the truck failed to clear and struck the marquee. The supporting columns fell, and the entire station, 14x20 feet, settled upon the truck.

The truck had to wait for a house-wrecking outfit to "jack up" the building.

Divorce Action Of Woodward Wife Held Up

Ex-Bunco King Refused To Accept Service of Mate's Petition.

District Judge E. Marvin Underwood yesterday signed an order temporarily restraining the divorce action of Mrs. Helen Ruth Woodward, first wife of Floyd P. Woodward, former "bunco" king, now serving a term in the Atlanta federal penitentiary.

The document ordered Mrs. Woodward to show cause March 5, 1941, why a preliminary and permanent injunction should not be issued against her "further proceeding in the divorce action in Fulton superior court."

Woodward's petition, filed by Ralph R. Quillian, set out that Mrs. Woodward filed the divorce suit January 20, 1941, and that January 22, 1941, Deputy Sheriff T. O. Creel brought a copy of the divorce petition to Fulton Tower for service.

Woodward declined to accept service, and Deputy Creel left the copy in Woodward's cell, in which he had been lodged to await trial on mail fraud charges in the million-dollar "bunco" ring here 20 years ago.

Woodward's petition claims that he is a resident of California, and that his presence in this state was "wholly involuntary on his part and solely for prosecution under the indictments."

Growth in Desire To Defend Latin Nations, Gallup Reports

Public Fought Alarmed by Nazi Penetration and Wants It Rebuffed; Many Believe U. S. Should Fight To Protect Hemisphere.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.
Copyright, 1941.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 20.—What do people in the United States think about South America? Are they indifferent to the fate, and future, of the republics to the south? Would they fight to defend them against invasion?

To find the facts concerning public opinion on this vital issue, the American Institute of Public Opinion has gone to the people themselves in a nation-wide survey. This survey reveals four important facts:

1—Most Americans regard Central and South America as a region of great natural resources and potential wealth which is destined to become powerful and important in the world scene.

2—The great majority believe Nazi Germany will try to get control of South American countries or is already trying, and sentiment is nearly unanimous that we should do all in our power to prevent this.

3—There has been a significant increase in the number of Americans who think the United States should fight to defend Central or South America against foreign attack. The number favoring such aid has nearly tripled in three years.

4—A sizable majority believe the United States should lend money to Latin-American countries for the building of industries, railroads and defenses.

Back in 1938, only one-third of voters polled by the Institute were ready to defend South America against foreign invasion. By September, 1939, this figure had only increased to 53 per cent—a bare majority. Today, nearly nine persons in every ten with opinions on the subject are ready to take up the defense of Latin America in case of invasion.

It is clear from these results that the Monroe Doctrine, in so far as it pertains to keeping the Americas free from foreign penetration, is a very live principle in the minds of U. S. citizens.

The question was asked: "Do you think Germany will try to get control of Central and South American countries?"

Yes	50%
Germany is already trying	38
No	7
Don't know	5

Especially significant in the above table is the fact that only 7 per cent—fewer than one person in every ten—believe Hitler's statement that he has no interest in the continent of the Americas.

Japan Brings Mediation Plan New Pressure Is Denied by On Indo-China Tokyo Official Nipponese Troop Transports Are Reported Steaming Southward.

SHANGHAI, Friday, Feb. 21.—(UP)—Japan is bringing increasing pressure to bear on French Indo-China and is prepared completely to occupy that country if necessary, Occidental diplomatic sources said today.

The informants confirmed Chungking reports that more Japanese troops are being concentrated on Hainan Island, whence they can be moved into Indo-China within a few hours, but doubted that the numbers were as great as suggested in some Chinese quarters which placed the Japanese strength on Hainan at 75,000 troops.

Japanese troop transports were reported by the Associated Press steaming southward from Formosa and Japan herself, headed presumably for Hainan Island—a likely way station in any drive that might be made upon Singapore or for northern French Indo-China.

The informants believed that the Japanese government is in agreement with leaders of the armed services that Japan's foothold in Indo-China and Thailand must not be relinquished although all thought of further penetration into the Netherlands East Indies and other areas of southeast Asia has been abandoned.

On the basis of late intelligence reports, the informants outlined the situation thus:

British influence in Indo-China has shown a considerable upsurge since the landing this week of thousands of Australian troops in British Malaya. French and Indo-Chinese delegates at the Thailand-Indo-China peace conference in Tokyo now are much less amenable to Japanese "suggestions" and "requests" than they were before.

That faction of French leadership in Indo-China which always has favored the colony's adhesion to the British-sponsored "free France" movement in London, headed by General Charles de Gaulle, now is gaining in strength and urging a policy of resistance to Japan.

FRENCH-JAPANESE DISPUTE REPORTED

HANOI, French Indo-China, Feb. 20.—(P)—Reliable sources reported tonight that a serious dispute had arisen between the Japanese and French authorities over Japanese demands for $10,000,000 worth of American and Chinese-

Confusion Reported To Have Arisen From Word 'Message.'

TOKYO, Feb. 21.—(Friday)—(P)—Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka called a special press conference late last night to deny that he had made a reputed special offer to Britain to mediate the war in Europe.

"As foreign minister, I never have offered mediation to any nation in the world for restoration of world peace," Matsuoka said.

News in London was that Japan had made such a mediation offer, but it was reported here that confusion had arisen from the Japanese press use of the word "message."

"I replied to an inquiry by (British Foreign Secretary) Eden concerning matters relative to the Japanese mediation of the Thai-Indo-China dispute," said Matsuoka.

"Although I expressed my views in that reply concerning establishment of world peace, I never sent to any nation any message concerning Japanese mediation for world peace as has been rumored."

Dr. Francis Stewart, 87, Pharmacy Expert, Dies
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 20.—(P)—Dr. Francis Edward Stewart, 87, honorary president of the American Pharmaceutical Association and one of the organizers of the American Medical Association's Council of Pharmacy and Chemistry, died today.

"Herd up" that used stove, heater, fur coat, radio, gun, etc. and "corral" cash by advertising them in the Want Ads of The Constitution.

owned goods stored in Haiphong warehouses. These sources said Japanese military authorities demanded that the French requisition the goods and then hand them over to the Japanese, but that the French flatly refused to assist the Japanese "in any unfair way" and said that if the Japanese wanted the goods they must seize them forcibly and take the responsibility themselves.

The supplies include American trucks, tires and other materials which were en route to China when the Japanese cut off the Haiphong-Kunming route last September.
